WILLKIE GAINS IN STRAWS FROM COUNTY TOWNS

Polls 50.9 Pct. of All Votes Tabulated.

First returns from Iowa in The Tribune's straw vote, now being taken in five states, will be published tomorrow. A tabulation of the second day's returns from Illinois is on page 4 of this edition.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Results of 10,904 more straw ballots cast by Illinois citizens in The Tribune's straw vote are given today. The samplings of sentiment on the Nov. 5 election were taken on Chicago street corners, in Cook county suburbs, and in downstate cities. The day's batch of straws displays the same trends as the first tabulation printed yesterday.

Wendell L. Willkie has 58 per cent of the day's straws gathered in seven downstate cities and 62 per cent in the Cook county towns. He gains a bit in the towns and drops a point and a half downstate when the two days' figures are combined. President Roosevelt leads in Chicago about 60 to 40. Willkie has 50.9 per cent of all straws so far tabulated thruout the state.

Ahead of Landon Tally.

The tables to date embrace a total of 33,343 straw votes. The straws show:

	Roosevelt.	Pct.	Willkie.	Pct.
Chicago	6,638	60.1	4,401	39.9
Cook county towns	1,919	38.9	3,131	62.0
14 downstate cities	2,871	49.1	4,293	59.9
	11,418	49.1	11,825	50.9

Four years ago Roosevelt, who carried all 50 Chicago wards except two, got 70 per cent or more of the vote in 23 of the wards. All of these except three have been in the first two days' tables. All the heavy Democratic wards on the west side are in the straw returns so far printed.

Roosevelt Drop Shown.

In today's straws Roosevelt has 65 per cent in the west side, where in the election four years ago his vote in the same wards was 75 per cent. On the south side he drops from 61 per cent in the 1936 election to 52.7 per cent in the straws. On the north side he has 51.6 per cent of the straws, where in the 1936 election he had 58 per cent.

In the state races Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for senator, leads his opponent, Senator James M. Slattery, by polling 56.4 per cent of the straws thus far in that contest. Dwight H. Green, G. O. P. nominee for governor, has 58.8 per cent of the straws in his race with Harry B. Hershey, the Democratic nominee. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, who is seeking reëlection, has received 50.8 per cent of the straws in the Cook county race for prosecutor against Judge Oscar F. Nelson, his Republican opponent.

Results of Downstate Tally.

The straws in the seven downstate cities in today's Presidential table were cast by industrial workers, farmers, shoppers, and people on Main street. The results are as follows:

Joliet—Willkie has 52.5 per cent of the straws. Four years ago Landon had 43 per cent. Two years ago Lyons had 55 per cent.

Kankakee—This city gives Willkie 69 per cent of the straws, whereas in the elections Landon got 44 per cent and Lyons 56 per cent.

Watseka—Here, in Iroquois county, a fine farming region, Willkie has 72 per cent. Landon carried Watseka in 1936 with a 55 per cent vote. Lyons got 61 per cent.

Tuscola—Roosevelt has 51 per cent of the straws in this central Illinois city, which was carried by both Landon and Lyons.

Mattoon—This city, south of Tuscola, gives Willkie 53 per cent of the straws. In 1936 Landon had a 39 per cent vote. Two years ago Lyons had 48 per cent.

Vandalia—Here, the old state capital, Roosevelt has 51 per cent. In 1936 the President got a 53 per cent election vote.

Belvidere—This community in northern Illinois, in the heart of a strong Republican sector, gives Willkie 81 per cent. Landon carried Belvidere with 68 per cent in the election, and Lyons with 85 per cent.

A JOB FOR MATE! IT'S PRAYER OF RELIEFER'S WIFE

A Madonna of Little Italy Tells Hopes.

Have reliefers lost hope? Have they any enterprise left? Are they content to drift? What do they really want? Is there anything they will fight for? What will they vote for? More relief? A chance to help themselves? Jobs? What?

BY MARCIA WINN.

The parish priest gives you a doubtful stare, tugs at his stiff collar and says he knows five, maybe six, persons on relief. "All old," he says curtly. "They can't understand you if you talk to them. They don't speak English."

The plump storekeeper chews on a rind of pale cheese and smiles sardonically. Most of his business, he says, is paid for with the orange and blue food stamps of relief. "This street," and he gestures toward Cambridge avenue which bisects Chicago's Little Italy, "is almost solid relief. Next one, too. Maybe 50 per cent. Maybe 75."

Strangers Greeted Warily.

This is Little Italy, where a stranger, especially one who asks about relief, is spotted a block off and greeted warily.

"What you want?" asks an old beldam. "To stop our relief?"

Others shrug and hurry inside the frame houses that lean crazily, gauntly, in shabby cardboard cutout rows, with here a red geranium, there a straggling blue morning glory, to relieve the drabness.

This is Little Italy, with garlic on its breath; Little Italy where lives a stout and hardy race of individualists—but on relief. Factories tower over it to the west and south, and the light from the Palmolive beacon, a scant mile to the east, cleaves an overhead arc at night. Old men sit on the stoops and dream. Young men go out each morning to look for jobs and come home empty handed each night.

Remembers Nothing But Relief.

The dark eyed young woman with long, reddish hair swept back from a tired, pale edition of a Botticelli face sighs and shoos a fly from the face of her baby. She puckers her forehead in thought as she settles heavily on a sidewalk bench. "There's my brother-in-law," she says finally. "He isn't on relief. He's the only person I know. Everybody else is on relief. Me, I can't remember anything else . . . almost."

She brushes a piece of soot from her ragged heliotrope dress, scratches a bare leg and begins to talk, her eyes lost in distant dreams. Listen to her voice: It is soft, quiet, without rancor and devoid of self-pity, but crowded with yearning.

"More'n anything," she begins, "I'd like him [her husband] to have a steady job. He'd like that better than relief.

"He looks for them every day. He's disgusted of that. Day in and

RICH GERMAN REFUGEE AND WOMAN FRIEND DIE IN SUICIDE PACT

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 13 (AP).—A man identified as a wealthy German political refugee and a woman, also described as a refugee from her homeland, were found dead today in a hotel room. Police said a note revealed they had decided to end their lives.

Detective Lieutenant William Clow named the man as Hans Bielschowsky, 59 years old, and the woman as Mrs. Ebba Graetz, 41, both of New York, widow of a "Paul Graetz."

Clow said the couple had taken an overdose of a sedative. He said a note asked that they be cremated together.

Rudolph Bielschowsky, New York, a brother of the dead man, said Hans had been president of "Telefunken," a large Berlin electrical concern, until 1935 when he fled "because of his Jewish blood."

Hans was separated from his wife, his brother said. He came to New York five years ago. In his effects was a New York bank pass book showing a $48,000 balance.

Mrs. Graetz was said to have been the widow of Paul Graetz, a famous Viennese comedian, who died in Hollywood a few years ago shortly after he began work on a picture.

A Refugee, 13, Finds Father HeNeverKnew

A Chicago father and his 13 year old son met each other for the first time yesterday at Chicago airport after a year long argosy following the boy's flight before Nazi invaders from Poland where he was born.

The father is Dr. Adam L. Szwajkart of 6644 Raven street, acting medical superintendent of the Riverside branch of Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium. The son, Adam Jr., arrived from New York City aboard a United Air Lines plane.

The boy, who speaks Polish, French, Rumanian, and German, but no English, arrived alone in New York earlier in the day on the Greek liner Nea Hellas from Lisbon, Portugal.

Meet All Ships Since May.

He was met at the dock by his aunt, Mrs. Wendell Scott Howard, wife of an attaché in the American embassy in Berlin, who since last May had been meeting every trans-Atlantic ship and plane from Europe, hoping to find her nephew aboard.

Dr. Szwajkart during the world war served with the medical corps attached to Polish divisions fighting with the allies. After the war, while an instructor at the University of Cracow, he was married to a Polish countess.

Dr. Szwajkart returned to the United States shortly before his son was born. His wife and the child were to follow, but the mother became ill. She died six months after Adam was born. Adam and his sister, Christine, now 17, lived with a grandmother and, later, an aunt.

In September, 1939, when the Germans invaded Poland, the boy was a cadet in a military school in Lwow. When that city was bombed, Adam, accompanied by a governess, fled by car to Rumania. He and the governess became separated months ago.

Sails Thru Mined Waters.

Meanwhile, after many delays, Dr. Szwajkart succeeded in obtaining a passport for his son from the state department. The boy boarded the Nea Hellas at Athens and sailed thru mine infested waters of the Mediterranean to Lisbon, and thence to New York.

Dr. Szwajkart, who has married again, said that Adam would be placed in a Polish school until he learns English. The doctor said that he had not heard from his daughter since a year ago, when she was in a Polish convent school. He said that he would not rest until he had found her and brought her here, too.

RESCUE TWO MINERS TRAPPED IN MOUNTAIN SHAFT SINCE FRIDAY

Mahanoy City, Pa., Oct. 14, Monday (AP).—Two miners, entombed by a landslide in their coal hole since Friday morning, were rescued early today.

The men, William Burke, 28 years old, of nearby Robinsons, and William Goodman, 60, of Mahanoy City, seemed in good condition and were apparently not injured.

Burke, brought up at 1 a. m., walked to a waiting ambulance. Goodman, brought up five minutes later, was carried to a second ambulance.

"I'm all right," shouted Burke. Goodman said nothing. Both were taken to a hospital.

Earlier the men had been fed hot soup, water, and stimulants thru a two inch pipe forced thru solid coal.

FLYNN BRANDS PLOT TO SMEAR WILLKIE 'STUPID'

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn repudiated today and "deplored" issuance of a pamphlet calling attention to Wendell Willkie's German ancestry.

The Republican Presidential nominee last night denounced the pamphlet, which bore the heading, "Speakers Bureau, Colored Division, Hotel Biltmore, New York City," as representing "as scurrilous and indecent attempt as ever occurred in American public life to raise religious and racial prejudices."

Flynn called the pamphlet a "stupid document," said it had not been submitted to the national committee's publicity division for approval, and added "No one for a moment questions Mr. Willkie's 100 per cent Americanism."

DEFENSE CHIEF'S UNION STRIKES—ON A DEFENSE JOB

Linden, N. J., Oct. 13 (AP).—A walkout at the Allied Clothing plant by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers [C.I.O.], whose head is Sidney Hillman, national defense commissioner, has tied up production of 7,500 overcoats for the United States army under a war department contract.

Jerome Hilton, plant manager, said today that his company had a contract with the United Garment Workers [A.F.L.] for the last 20 years and that the walkout last Tuesday of 120 of the 250 employés was the result of a "jurisdictional strike" by the C.I.O. union.

Hilton said the strike came without demands from the C.I.O. union.

Willkie Faces 55 Speeches in 13 Day Push

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Wendell Willkie will make at least 55 speeches in nine states in 13 speaking days between now and Oct. 29, resting only on Sundays on railroad side tracks.

Political experts declare that this is one of the hardest campaign schedules ever undertaken by a Presidential candidate and, coming on top of the coast to coast campaign that he has made since leaving Rushville, Ind., on Sept. 12, that it shows the remarkable staying and recuperative powers of the Republican nominee.

Strategic States.

The schedule just completed by his campaign managers and given his approval shows that his chief efforts for the rest of the campaign will be centered in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Illinois, the states with the big blocks of electoral votes and where the situation is admittedly close between President Roosevelt and himself. Other states he will visit include Indiana, Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Kentucky.

Willkie faces the remaining three weeks of the campaign with hope and a vigor which never seems to sag. Occasionally, at a night meeting after a hard day on the road with many brief talks, he might appear to be tired, but he is likely to show up an hour afterward smiling and ready for more work.

Plans for Illinois.

Willkie will center much of his work in Illinois, in addition to his appearances in southern and central Illinois on Oct. 17 and 18, which were previously announced, he will speak at Rockford and Chicago on Oct. 22, and in Bloomington, Champaign, and Danville on Oct. 28.

Willkie spent most of today on a sidetrack of the New York Central railroad at Feura Bush Crossing near Albany. He and Mrs. Willkie, their son, Philip, and Ed Willkie, a brother, motored into Albany to attend services at the First Presbyterian church. The afternoon was spent in loafing and reading and looking at the autumnal glories of the countryside.

New York Drive Today.

Tomorrow morning Willkie will begin a two day campaign across northern New York, ending with a night meeting at Syracuse. The next day he will continue on to Buffalo.

On Wednesday Willkie will enter Ohio. Reports from that state show that he is in the lead, altho not heavily. He will make a one day swing across the state, ending with a night meeting at Cincinnati.

On Thursday Willkie will enter Illinois.

ROME, Oct. 13 (AP).—Light Italian warships, picking a fight with a heavier British naval force near its own Malta station, sank a cruiser and damaged an aircraft carrier and another cruiser in a furious sea and air battle in the eastern Mediterranean, the Italian high command reported today.

Its communique acknowledged that an Italian destroyer and two torpedo boats also went down in the battle, which, it said, lasted thru a day and a night off the British island stronghold.

[The only information on Mediterranean action from the British side was a communique issued yesterday at Valletta, Malta, reporting that Italian planes approached that base Saturday, but turned back without attacking.]

Call It a Victory.

Altho Italy lost three ships for one, the Italians counted it a triumph because, they said, their losses totaled only 2,600 tons against 7,000 for Britain.

Altho the ships involved were not stated, the British fleet was described as "notable" and the fact that the Italian ships were sunk indicated that the Italian force also must have been of considerable strength.

The high command's account of the engagement said:

"Our torpedoing ships [torpedo boats and destroyers] on patrol in the Sicilian straits courageously attacked notable English naval forces near Malta during the night of Oct. 11 and Saturday.

"One enemy cruiser, probably of the Neptune type, sank. Other serious damages were inflicted on other enemy ships which steamed away.

Tell Own Losses.

"We lost two 600 ton torpedo boats and one 1,400 ton destroyer. A large part of the crew were saved.

"During the first hours of the morning our air formations sighting enemy ships came upon them as they steamed eastward and subjected them to intense bombing. Notwithstanding extremely vigorous fire from an aircraft carrier which was accompanying the enemy naval formation, and in adverse atmospheric conditions, our aviation was able to obtain notable results.

"The aircraft carrier was hit on the prow by a heavy caliber bomb. One heavy cruiser was damaged on the left side. Two enemy pursuit planes were shot down. One of our planes failed to return."

British cruisers of the Neptune type average about 7,000 tons and carry crews of 550 men each.

The communique also reported the usual air and patrol skirmishes in Africa: A 10,000 ton British cruiser attacked by planes while convoying ships in the Red sea, Italian air raids on Maaten, Bagush, and Daba, east of Matruh; at Lodwar, west of Lake Robertson, and Wajir; British raids on Bardia, Derna, and Tobruk, and British motorized forces thrown back in East Africa, near the Eritrean frontier.

British Bomb Tobruk.

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 13 (AP).—A British royal air force communique said tonight:

"In raids on Tobruk [Libya] very large fires were started and explosions occurred. Shipping in the harbor was attacked. Hits were registered on naval barracks.

BRAZIL AND CHILE TO LEASE AIR AND SEA BASES TO U. S.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 13.—It was learned from an unimpeachable diplomatic source tonight that Brazil and Chile have agreed to lease naval and air bases to the United States. It is understood that at least one base will be established in Chile, probably at or near Valparaiso, and two in Brazil, of which one will be at or near Para.

The agreements with Brazil and Chile are the outcome of informal conversations with the Washington government which began last June. The United States will finance construction of the bases.

It also is believed in well informed diplomatic sources that Uruguay may revise its earlier decision and agree to lease bases to the United States.

Construct Air Base and Concentrate Fast Naval Craft.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 13 (AP).—Russia has mounted long range guns at the junction of the Prut and Danube rivers on the Russian-Rumanian border, has concentrated a large fleet of fast naval craft along both rivers, and is moving great masses of troops toward the frontier, well informed quarters in Nazi dominated Bucharest said tonight.

These sources also said the Russians have sunk two Rumanian military patrol boats in hotly contested attacks in the vicinity of the mouth of the Danube river.

Word of almost feverish military activity in Cernauti, chief city of the Rumanian province of northern Bukovina which Russia gained last summer by ultimatum, was brought by refugees from that city.

Vast Military Camp.

They said the whole area is being turned into a vast military encampment; the city is being cleared of civilians and thousands of laborers are leveling the ground for an extensive military airport. These refugees said the Russians planned to build hangars for a concentration of 300 fighter and bomber planes.

All homes in Cernauti have been turned into military quarters for Red army officers. In this position the Russians would be at the rear and on the flank of the Germans, should they advance toward the Dardanelles.

[The junction of the Prut and Danube rivers, where the big guns were reported placed, forms the southwestern tip of the new boundary which Russia gained last summer by the acquisition of the Rumanian province of Bessarabia.]

Simultaneous Attacks.

Well informed sources said Russian river monitors sank the two Rumanian patrol boats recently in almost simultaneous attacks at Chilia, on the boundary of Bessarabia, and on the Star of Istanbul canal, leading out of Chilia to the Black sea. Russian boats stationed at Chilia, a river port on one of the branches of the Danube river near its mouth, were said to have violated Rumanian territorial waters during the last four days.

Many Russian river ships of a special type not explained were reported massed on the Prut river at Leova, a Russian held junction in Rumania's former province of Bessarabia. Each ship was said to carry from 20 to 30 men of a special soviet naval unit.

Meanwhile, the British, whose relations with Rumania have been strained almost to the breaking point, announced that plans to remove their nationals from the country were completed. Hundreds will leave tomorrow and Thursday on Black sea ships.

Celebrate Arrival of Nazis.

Thruout the country Rumanians celebrated the arrival of German soldiers. German towns in the Banat and Transylvania regions were decked out with Nazi flags. The first issue of the new official Iron Guard newspaper declared that the "presence among us of these German army missionaries must not be considered a cause for alarm but only sincere acknowledgement of our friendship for the axis."

The Rumanian government issued a statement explaining that a recently imposed ban on oil exports to Greece would be lifted but new control would be established so that neither Greece nor Turkey could export Rumanian oil products to a third country.

Believe Russia Alarmed.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 13 (AP).—The belief of some Balkan observers that Russia has become increasingly alarmed over reported German plans for a near east drive across the Dardanelles was strengthened tonight by reports that the Red army is concentrating troops and airplanes along the Rumanian frontier.

That the censor approved Bucharest reports that two Rumanian naval patrol vessels were sunk by Russian monitors recently was held by observers to be indicative of increasing tension. Other observers held that evidence still was not sufficient to indicate whether Germany is running counter to Russian interests or whether wide reaching military cooperation between Berlin and Moscow in the near east might be developing.

Opposed to the latter conjecture,

RAID KILLS 3,000 GERMAN TROOPS, BRITISH DECLARE

Claim Bombs Sink 2 Ships at French Port.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Oct. 14, Monday (AP).—British bombers defied "extremely adverse weather" during the night to attack German occupied ports across the English channel and objectives in Germany, the air ministry reported today.

LONDON, Oct. 14, Monday (AP).—German raiders turned loose a thunderous assault on an industrial area in northeast England as well as London early today and killed 15 persons and wounded 20 others seriously in bomb hits on two public shelters. There were raids over various parts of England and Wales and Liverpool was raided for the second time in 24 hours.

The stepped up raids came after the ministry of information had reported that high explosive bombs falling on the Nazi-held French port of Lorient sank two big ships and killed "over 3,000 German soldiers" in a single night raid recently.

The British government, the ministry declared, received its information from "a neutral source," which it did not name.

Scan Damage at Cherbourg.

At the same time the admiralty and the air ministry announced that R. A. F. reconnaisance flights over the trans-Atlantic port of Cherbourg, farther north, had revealed extensive damage to harbor facilities and shipping as the result of the British navy's bombardment Thursday night and a simultaneous attack by the RAF.

The ministry of information's statement asserted that repeated R. A. F. raids on Berlin had left the population "badly shaken" and with weakened morale after Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's assurances "that no foreign aircraft could penetrate German defenses."

As if to lend point to this statement which quoted undisclosed sources, the air ministry announced Saturday night's aerial assault on the German capital had lasted for over an hour with a continuing rain of tons of explosives and incendiary bombs on "a number of military objectives" in the heart of the city.

Blast Electric Power Station.

An electric power station in the Moabit district, the air ministry said, "received special attention." A gas works and an important freight yard also were hit.

Other R. A. F. bombers were busy elsewhere. The places they hit, the ministry said, included an aluminum works at Heringen, an electric power station at Waldeck, the Krupp munitions plant at Essen, a blast furnace at Torgau, metal works at Bitterfeld, and the Fokker aircraft works at Amsterdam.

Others attacked oil plants at Cologne and Hanover, freight yards at Cologne and Hamm, the Dortmund-Ems aqueduct, and several airdromes.

The air ministry news service said British planes dropped bombs on 40 separate military objectives. One of them was the bridge which carries an important military highway across the river at Hanover.

The air ministry said bombers patroling the Norwegian coast, spotted two supply ships of between 2,000 and 3,000 tons bearing swastika markings. They had crates piled high on deck. The bombers dived, dropped bombs, and raked the ships with machine guns. An hour later when they saw the ships again one was burning. Then they spotted a third supply ship and machine-gunned it.

The Germans stepped up their attacks on London last night and early today to the regular roar of the nightly assaults and dropped bombs on 24 London districts.

In contrast with Saturday night, when the tempo of the raids let down considerably as the hours advanced, the Germans seemed to take a new spurt as Sunday midnight passed.

Duels High Above London.

An undetermined number of civilians were trapped in smashed Liverpool tenements. Over a hundred persons were made homeless.

The night raids came after British and German planes had duelled high in the haze of an autumn sky over London during two day raids.

In one Saturday night attack an underground railway station was hit by a bomb which killed seven persons. [Londoners are using underground railway stations for raid shelters.]

An authoritative source said Germany had lost 66 planes in the week ending at midnight Saturday while the R. A. F. lost 43 planes. It was said 26 of the R. A. F. pilots were safe.

Claim Railways Demoralized.

BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP).—Nine waves of heavily laden bombers blasted rail facilities in the heart of London and in southern England and caused widespread demoralization to British communications systems, German military sources reported today.

In day and night attacks on Saturday, the high command communique said, bombs were dropped in central London at both ends of old London bridge which connects the complex traffic centers in the Bank of England area with similar systems on the south side of the Thames, and scored so many hits on big, rambling Waterloo station, across from Charing Cross, that "great disruption of traffic may be counted as certain."

At the same time a mammoth German bomber was said by other sources to have attacked a British ore boat a Gibraltar and to have left it in sinking condition.

A total of 44,041 tons of shipping was reported sunk by two submarines, and 21 planes were reported brought down by Germans. Seven planes did not get home.

British Air Service Across Atlantic Ended for Season

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP).—The British trans-Atlantic civil air service, maintained by the flying boats Clyde and Clare, has ended for the season, it was said tonight.

FRANCE TO PUT MEN 60 ON SHELF TO CREATE JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Oct. 13—A legislative project somewhat resembling the Townsend old age pension plan has been worked out by the minister of industrial production as a measure to help reduce unemployment in France in the coming winter.

The plan proposes modification of France's social insurance laws to give each worker more than 60 years old 3,000 francs a year provided he does no work. It is provided that after next Tuesday no worker who has reached 60 may be carried on the lists at labor exchanges as seeking work.

It is estimated that the plan will pension the elder workers off and create jobs for the unemployed, of whom France has far more than a million. Before the war almost all Frenchmen had jobs.

The project is only part of a program adopted by the Petain government to cope with unemployment, which threatens to become worse as winter advances.

Algerians Support Vichy Rule, Gen. Weygand Reports

VICHY, France, Oct. 13 (AP).—Maxime Weygand, dispatched to Africa as the representative of the Petain government to combat "free France" movements in that section, today informed Marshal Petain from Algeria that the population of French Africa is firmly supporting the Vichy régime.

COL. M'CORMICK CITES DANGER OF WAR CENSORSHIP

Deceives Own People, Not the Enemy, He Says.

Wartime censorship is imposed to conceal the shortcomings of burocracy and politicians from the public, Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, said in a speech last night over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting network during the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour.

Col. McCormick cited as an example the censorship imposed in France before and during the German invasion, which he said deluded the French as to the strength of their army.

Col. McCormick began his speech by reading a letter, dated Jan. 10, 1918, which had been sent to him by Gen. James G. Harbord, chief of staff of the American expeditionary forces. Col. McCormick at that time was a major of the 5th Field Artillery in the A. E. F.

Proper Criticisms Urged.

"You may be interested in knowing," Gen. Harbord's letter said, "that last week we sent a cablegram to the United States urging that newspaper correspondents here be permitted to indulge in proper criticisms of supply departments when the criticisms are well founded, on the theory that the public was entitled to the information. The reply from the war department is not favorable to the idea."

"I received this letter," Col. McCormick continued, "after I had left headquarters and joined the 1st division which, with starving horses and lacking many essentials of clothing and arms, was about to march to the front.

"The biggest falsehood of war is that censorship is imposed to keep information from the enemy. The enemy has means of knowing far more about our army than our own public and our newspaper reporters. It knows almost everything that is not kept locked up in the breasts of those high in authority.

Hides Politicians' Shortcomings.

"The purpose of censorship is to conceal from the public the shortcomings of the burocracy and of the politicians.

"Hitler, of course, knew all about the French army, as he does about ours, but the French people were deluded as to the strength of their own army and the strength of their opponents thru censorship before the war and during the war.

"They lived in a fool's paradise while their army — insufficiently armed, poorly disciplined, and of low morale—stood in its lines like a partridge in a tree, to be shot down at the convenience of the hunter.

"While French generals protested the weakness of their arms and their numbers, the controled French radio and the controled French press deceived the French public in order to conceal the blunders of the French politicians.

"Because of the shortness of the broadcast this evening, I will not go into the subject tonight, but will tell you next week what really happened before and in the battle of Flanders."

SYMPHONIC HOUR.

The musical portion of the Symphonic hour presented Marion Claire, soprano soloist, and the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus conducted by Henry Weber. The program included an aria from Massenet's "Manon," sung by Miss Claire and dedicated to 300 members of the Phi Beta musical fraternity, present in the studio.

Miss Claire's other solo was the church scene from "Cavalleria Rusticana," in which she was aided by the chorus and the orchestra. Other orchestra selections included a portion of the ballet music from Glazounoff's "The Seasons," the Johann Strauss "Emperor Waltz" and the Malaguena from the Moszkowski opera "Boabdil, King of the Moors."

Program notes by Cecil Smith were read by Bret Morrison. The Symphonic hour was produced under the supervision of William A. Bacher. The program, usually an hour, was shorter last night because of President Roosevelt's broadcast address.

SHIP SURVIVORS, IN LIFEBOAT 28 DAYS, REACH RIO

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 13 (AP).—Twenty-two survivors of the Greek ship Antonius Chantris, 5,856 tons, who said their ship had been blown up Sept. 8 by an armed surface raider, arrived here today aboard the Portuguese liner Serpa Pinto.

They said they spent 28 days in a lifeboat. Another lifeboat containing about 20 members of the crew has not been heard from. The raider was described as a converted merchantman.

Previous dispatches from Portugal said the Antonius Chantris had been torpedoed.

Russian Action in Balkans

Captions on this map tell developments yesterday as Russians moved troops into area near Rumanian border as shown by heavy arrows. The soviet troops apparently are taking positions which would be valuable in event the Germans proceed toward Turkey, as indicated by light arrow.

Nazis Exposed on Flank.

Foreign military observers said that if the Red army opposed any German near east drive thru Rumania, it would have the more strategically placed men and equipment. Germany would be exposed to a flank attack, they said.

Still another theory was that Russia, with her interest in the Dardanelles and Bulgaria, was matching Germany's game of heavy troop movements as part of a diplomatic juggling for advantage in concessions.

Relations between Turkey and Russia are being watched closely as a possible key to future developments. It was suggested that Turkey's outspoken attitude may be the result of adequate knowledge that Moscow is opposed to any further German advance.

Turks See Threat to Russia.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 13 (AP).—Turkish newspapers emphasized today the possible threat to soviet Russia of Germany's military occupation of Rumania, and asserted Turkey was prepared to fight if invaded.

The official Ankara newspaper "Ulus" declared: "It is possible that Germany is preparing a base for a stride northward or has occupied Rumania to block the soviet in the south."

Vows Jugo-Slavs Will Fight.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Oct. 13 (AP).—Prime Minister Dragisa Cvetkovic declared today that Jugo-Slavia was "created in blood and only in that way can territory be taken from her."

The premier made this firm declaration which heartened Jugo-Slav political circles amid reports that the axis powers, pressing Jugo-Slavia to abandon her neutral policies, were demanding also military concessions from her. Urging national unity of Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes, the premier addressed a south Serbian crowd at Skoplje while on an inspection of army garrisons of the Albanian and Bulgarian borders.

FRANCE UPHOLDS DEGRADATION OF OFFICER IN ARMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Oct. 13.—After two hours of deliberation, the second chamber of the French appeals court, sitting at Lyons, yesterday upheld the sentence of deportation and military degradation pronounced against Lieut. Jean Zay, former minister of public instruction, by the military tribunal of the 13th French army district in Clermont-Ferrand on Oct. 4.

Jean Zay.

Zay, who was liaison officer in a transport section of the 4th French army, was charged with having disobeyed his commanding officer's orders to report to headquarters to which this army was retreating at St. Flour and instead, on his own initiative, having gone to Bordeaux, from where he took a ship for North Africa.

YANKEE FLYING SQUADRON SOON TO BATTLE NAZIS

Milwaukeean with British Hopes 'to Get Hitler.'

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

IN NORTHWEST ENGLAND, Oct. 13.—Optimism surrounds the American boys serving with the royal air force training corps here known as the Eagle squadron.

The only fear encountered among the 11 visited in the big training center was that the war would be over before they finished their combat training.

It is believed likely, however, that the Americans will be fighting German flyers before Christmas. After finishing their present studies they will take up their training in final air tactics and soon be ready, in the words of one, to "show them something."

Among the Americans is John Butler Ayer, 28 years old, of Milwaukee, Wis., who said he wanted "to get Hitler and a couple of Italians."

They're Young Daredevils.

The flyers are young daredevils, but they seem not to be soldiers of fortune. Love of aviation and a desire for experience have a part in their motives. Some have English family connections. All appear clean cut, disciplined, and gentlemanly.

Two seated Miles "Master" planes, an advanced type, are used in training the flyers. Nine of the ships were lined up at the aerdrome when I visited it.

How the Americans moved to obtain the rank of flight pilot in the R. A. F., which corresponds to a second lieutenancy in the United States, was disclosed. Most of them contacted a British representative in America and then underwent physical and flying tests in Canada, where about 80 per cent of the candidates were rejected.

Cost of Living a Burden.

The boys seem satisfied with their lot, stating the British have compiled with all their agreements. They find it a little difficult to adjust themselves to a rate of pay different from that in the United States army, especially because of the present cost of living here.

The senior instructor of the Americans is a flyer who was recently shot down twice. He often opens his lectures to them with this advice:

"Half of you will be dead before six months simply because you won't listen to me."

More Returns from Tribune Poll of Voters in Five States

Below are the second day's tabulations of the straw vote being taken by THE TRIBUNE in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin on the principal candidates in the election of Nov. 5. These returns, from Chicago and downstate Illinois, include the candidates for President, United States senator, governor, and, in Cook county, for state's attorney. In the presidential race the tabulation shows the number of straws cast for Willkie and Roosevelt and the percentage for each. It also shows the percentages of the principal candidates in the elections of 1936 and 1938 in wards in which the straw votes now are being taken.

YOUNG PRINCESS SPEAKS TO CHEER BRITISH CHILDREN

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP).—Fourteen year old Princess Elizabeth said in her first radio broadcast today that Britain's children at home were "full of cheerfulness and courage." She spoke on the British Broadcasting company's children's hour which was sent overseas.

"We know, every one of us, that in the end all will be well," said the king's eldest child. "And when peace comes," the princess added, "remember it will be for us children of today to make the world of tomorrow a better and happier place.

"Thousands of you in this country have had to leave your homes and be separated from your fathers and mothers. To you living in new surroundings, my sister and I send a message of true sympathy and at the same time we would like to thank the kind people who have welcomed you to their homes in the country."

U. S. Military Aid Reaches Moscow After Month's Trip

MOSCOW, Oct. 13 (AP).—Capt. Joseph Michela arrived today to take his post as assistant military attaché of the United States embassy after a one-month journey across the Atlantic, thru Portugal, and thence across Europe.

15 ALIEN AUTHORS REACH AMERICA ON GREEK VESSEL

Hoboken N. J., Oct. 13 (AP).—Fifteen alien authors and the families of several of them arrived today from Lisbon, apparently beneficiaries of a so-called "underground railway" delivering prominent scholars and writers from Nazi-dominated parts of Europe.

Franz Werfel Top. Heinrich Mann.

Among them—arriving aboard the Greek liner Nea Hellas—were Franz Werfel, author of "The 40 Days of Musa Dagh"; Heinrich and Gottfried Mann, brother and son of Thomas Mann; Walther Victor, German novelist, and Hermann Budzislawski, former Berlin editor.

While they declined to talk about their methods of leaving Europe, Dr. Frank Kingdon, chairman of the emergency rescue committee, indicated the existence of an "underground railway" similar to that used to smuggle slaves out of the south during civil war days in this country.

"The committee has brought more than 100 persons wanted by the Nazis from Marseille to Lisbon," he said. "The gradual organization of German Gestapo thruout France gives us but three or four more weeks to do our work."

WOMAN CLUBBED; YOUTH JAILED.

George Davis, 15 years old, colored, of 3652 Wentworth avenue, was arrested yesterday as he fled after, police said, he had struck Mrs. Ruth Harkink, 33, of 337 West 37th street, with an iron bar. She was not seriously hurt. Davis said Mrs. Harkink had scolded him a week ago as he did some work for her.

It'll tell her all the things you think but cannot tell . . . that her voice is like the water that ripples in a pebbled brook; her eyes like little glistening seas; her chin a dimpled symphony; her nose adorable; her lips incomparable. It will do those things for you . . . if you'll send a love letter, too.

2 MILLION POLES TO BE VACCINATED IN TYPHOID WAR

BY ALVIN J. STEINKOPF.

WARSAW, Oct. 13 (AP).—Two million persons, perhaps more, will be vaccinated against typhoid fever and paratyphoid this fall and winter in battered Warsaw and the "general government," the little Polish state that surrounds it.

A million two hundred thousand persons were vaccinated in Warsaw a year ago in what the Germans called the greatest intensified fight against typhoid fever in medical history. As a result, there is not a case of typhoid fever in Warsaw today. From a high mark of 820 cases on an October day last year the disease dropped to zero.

The typhoid prevalence last year—2,000 cases in one month and 820 cases on the worst day—was a war condition attributed to the smashing of the water supply system and sewers by German shells and bombs.

A Fight Won in Eight Weeks.

Repairs were made after the Germans occupied the land but typhoid, a disease of filth, had secured a foothold that alarmed authorities not only of Poland but of neighboring countries, especially Germany. Scientific measures of suppression brought the disease to the vanishing point within eight weeks.

"There is sure to be more typhoid fever this winter," said Dr. Jost Wallbaum, director of health of the "general government." "I'm especially concerned about the rural areas, but my army of health workers is mobilized and ready. Typhoid is to be stamped out in Poland whether Poland likes it or not."

Dr. Wallbaum was especially pleased that most of the labor of fighting Polish epidemics was done by the Poles themselves. The Germans supplied only the leadership. More than 500 German physicians and health workers are in the land. They pour out a thunder of advice to the people.

Jewish Scientists Lend Aid.

The Germans don't hesitate to cooperate with or ask the help of Jewish scientists and physicians.

Dr. Wallbaum invited me to listen as he conferred in Warsaw with 17 Polish physicians on health problems in their districts. For my benefit they listed the diseases they regarded as the most menacing:

First, typhus, especially dangerous to foreigners; second, typhoid fever; third, venereal diseases; fourth, trachoma, a disease of the eyes prevalent in eastern Poland.

There was no agreement on what should be next on the list, but some of the Polish doctors held it should be hydrophobia, which sometimes affects animals in broad areas of Poland.

EXPECT JAPANESE BID TO GET MORE FAR EAST RUBBER

HANOI, French Indo-China, Oct. 13 (AP).—French authorities here are awaiting the arrival of a Japanese economic mission in the expectation that it foreshadows extension of Japanese interest in southern Indo-China, whose rubber supply now goes principally to the United States. Japanese military operations so far have been confined to Tonking, the northernmost of the five states which make up Indo-China.

Japanese spokesmen said the mission will seek an increase in heretofore unimportant Japanese trade with all Indo-China—including Annam and Cochin-China, which are within the economic and geographic spheres of the British Malayas, the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

TOKIO, Oct. 13.—The Japanese people must be prepared even to commit "shinju"—love suicide—along with Germany and Italy if the worst comes, Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, told a gigantic mass meeting in Hibiya park today. The meeting was held in celebration of the tripower alliance.

Unless such a resolution is firmly held by the people, Japan cannot surmount the difficulties besetting its path, the foreign minister declared.

Reiterating that the pact is not directed at any country and that Japan does not seek any enemies, he cried:

"The hundred million people of Japan must, however, be determined to crush any country which hinders the creation of a new world order."

The German and Italian ambassadors to Tokio and the mayor were cheered as they delivered congratulatory messages.

Tokio Evidences Concern.

TOKIO, Oct. 14 Monday, (AP).—The United States state department's intention of sending special liners to the orient to remove Americans caused a new wave of consternation in Japanese official and press circles here today. The foreign office spokesman, reversing the usual rôle, questioned American newspapermen at his press conference regarding the number of nationals being evacuated.

Envoy's Wife Leaving.

PEKING, China, Oct. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Nelson T. Johnson, wife of the American ambassador to China, and two children and other dependents of embassy officials booked passage today on the American liner President Coolidge sailing from Shanghai on Nov. 11. They will lead the exodus of Americans from Japanese-dominated Peking in response to state department advice that American citizens get out of the orient.

Claim River Port Retaken.

HONGKONG, Oct. 13 (AP).—Recapture from the Japanese of Matang, Yangtze river port in northernmost Kiangsi province, was claimed today by the central [Chinese] news agency.

It said that by occupying Matang, where the Chinese built a boom to halt the Japanese inland push toward Hankow in 1938, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces had severed Japanese land and water communications between the important river ports of Anking and Kiukiang.

Bomb School for Blind Girls.

KUNMING, China, Oct. 13 (AP).—The school for blind Chinese girls was extensively damaged by Japanese dive bombers today. They struck first at the western industrial area, then turned on the densely populated residential and school district in the northwest.

TAKING IN TOO MUCH TERRITORY has upset most Dictators.. and a lot of shirt manufacturers, too. So.. in designing our new shirts we didn't attempt to take care of any genial Dreadnaughts like this →

And we realized that nothing but a Rhine wine bottle ← would fit lads like this

We've watched the oncoming generation lapping up cod-liver oil.. and we knew that vest pocket Napoleons would soon be extinct →

SO.. we concentrated on the thousands of average citizens who have never had a break.. because shirt manufacturers have misfit about 9 men out of 10 in trying to take care of the extreme requirements of the 10th.

Now.. thanks to the new patterns which we have developed and the cooperation of a forward-looking manufacturer we can offer 9 out of 10 men smoother fitting shirts than they have had before.. and at prices no higher than they have paid for ordinary shirts.

$2.50 to $7.50

And for the men whom no ready-to-wear shirt can fit properly.. we maintain a Custom Shirt department that serves many past and present athletes and others requiring special attention.

A JOB FOR MATE! IT'S PRAYER OF 'RELIEFER'S WIFE

day out that's all he does. Just look. They all think he is too young just because he's 26, but he fills out applications and then no good.

"He applies for everything he can. Box factories and floor lamps and everything. There isn't anything he doesn't go for. He goes from one factory to another, him and a bunch of fellows.

"That's what our arguments are all about. I say never have I been anything except on relief. Then I get to nagging. He'll end up going out and stealing for me and that's something I don't want him to do."

"Those are my cousins," she continued, waving at a group of young women who pass by with their children. "They're relief, too.

Four Live on $27.50 a Month.

"My husband's never had a job. O, odds and ends, sure, but never nothing long. He's a mechanic for cars.

"I was just goin' on 15 when we got married. Then he thought he was going to get a mechanical job from a fellow on Chicago avenue, but somebody got it first, so we had to go on relief.

"I been married five years, and I still haven't got decent furniture. I ain't got anything. I have clothes," she says gently, with a cursory glance at her torn heliotrope silk, "from when I was single and him—he has to go in rags all the time.

"We get $27.50 a month. Five dollars goes for rent, five for coal; the rest is in food stamps. It was $20 until my little boy [now 3] came and now they give me $1.18 a month for this one, too, but her formula costs $1 a can, and it only lasts a week.

Drives Her Nuts, Sometimes.

"All I want is for him to have a steady job. This way I have to run the money the way they want. They give you just enough and tell you how to spend it. You can't live on it, really.

"I have to make out somehow. Sure I do, but I can't have what I call a nice meal—meat and all that kind of good stuff — and you can't have chicken soup when you're sick, not on that. When this baby came, I cooked myself a lot of greens. That's all I ate on for a month.

"You can't get what you want. You have to get the cheapest stuff. You have to get meat that knocks your teeth off before you can eat it." She paused, displayed a broken front tooth and continued: "With a pound of spaghetti and a can of tomato paste, you can eat for two days, maybe four or five people. . . .

"It's really hard to live the way I'm living," she said, sitting abruptly upright. "It drives me nuts sometimes. . . ."

"Give us a job, job, job!" chanted a youth of about 15, throwing his school books to the ground and himself onto the bench. "Who wants a job," his voice merry and caroling, "on the WPA?"

"I think the politicians just make it worse," the young woman went on. "They all promise jobs from Roosevelt down—just to get votes. That's what they all say—they'll give us steady jobs—but they don't.

"Even if I had a vote [she is 20] I wouldn't vote for these politicians on a bet. They've just made things worster."

"If the politicians get in again?" demanded the youth.

"We'll just go on starving," she retorted.

"We'd starve, starve, starve!" chanted the boy. "Say, look what some one gave me," producing two pale green tickets. "Two tickets to the Aragon, that fancy place to dance! Gee, wouldn't I like to go? The nerve of them, tho. You gotta pay 50 cents with the ticket. Me have 50 cents? Nuts!"

The wan edition of Botticelli leaned over to the boy and took a ticket. She examined it carefully, a curious, distant look in her eyes.

"I'm 20 years old," she said slowly. "Twenty . . . and I've never been to a place like this yet . . . and neither has my husband."

"Aw, you've got a long life yet!" the boy said gaily, rising to his feet.

"Yeah?" she said, holding the ticket as if it were about to vanish. "Yeah?"

U. S. AND MEXICO MAY NEGOTIATE DEFENSE ACCORD

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 13 (AP).—Mexico and the United States "in all probability" will negotiate a mutual defense agreement similar to the United States-Canadian accord about Jan. 1, responsible Mexican sources said tonight.

No definite understanding was expected until after the United States Presidential election next month and these sources said, but an "atmosphere is being created steadily until Mexico's new president, Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, assumes office Dec. 1. Thus far only exploratory conversations have taken place, whereby Mexican and American people will welcome such a pact."

This was attributed to the United States western hemisphere defense policy and the progress of the European war. It was added that the entire hemisphere already assumed that the United States would negotiate bilateral accords equally with all Latin American republics.

DAKAR IN HANDS OF GERMANS, SAY POLISH SEAMEN

Boston, Mass., Oct. 13 (AP).—Asserting that the French West African port of Dakar has been in German hands since early July, 13 Polish seamen today told how they escaped from the port.

[Adherents of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, leader of "free" Frenchmen, have stated that Germans are at Dakar. The Vichy government has insisted they are not.]

Stefan Wawrzysko, chief engineer of the Polish steamer Rozewie, which came here from Brazil, said that when France collapsed, the ship fled to Dakar and was interned behind submarine nets and mine fields. The vessel draws little water when empty, he added, and on the night of July 5 it sailed safely over the mines to freedom.

FARMHAND SHOOTS COUPLE, KILLS SELF; LOVE TIFF BLAMED

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 13 [Special].—Lester Moberg, 24 years old, a farmhand, was found dead—a suicide—this afternoon, 12 hours after he had shot and wounded Herman Johnson, 27, and his wife, Lauretta, 24.

Johnson, shot thru the chest, is in a serious condition.

According to the story told Sheriff Frank Hooker of Knox county, the Johnsons were driving Miss Ruby Appleby, 22, to her home in Dahinda, 15 miles east of Galesburg, after a dance. Approaching the village, Johnson was waved to a stop by Moberg. Getting out of their car to talk with Moberg, the Johnsons were felled by revolver shots. Moberg fled.

Moberg had been keeping company with Miss Appleby. Recently they had quarreled. Sheriff Hooker believes Moberg mistook Mrs. Johnson for Miss Appleby when he attempted to kill her. Acquaintances said Moberg had been drinking heavily yesterday and had stolen an automobile in Dahinda. His body was in the stolen car when found near Fulton, 65 miles away, in Whiteside county.

Clipper, Damaged on Reef, Quits Guam for Wake Isle

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 14 [Monday] (AP).—Pan-American Airways officials said the American Clipper departed from Guam today for Wake Island after being delayed a day for repairs. The officials said a six inch hole was gashed in the craft's hull when it struck a coral reef while preparing to take off yesterday.

Report British Ship at Rio with Men for French Boats

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 13 (AP).—The 14,133 ton British liner Highland Princess arrived here today reportedly carrying 50 British seamen and officers to Buenos Aires to man the French ships Formose, 9,975 tons, and Kerguelen, 10,123 tons. The Formose has been described in some quarters as the "decoy" ship which lured the German pocketbattleship Admiral Graf Spee into her fatal battle with three British cruisers last December.

LIFT WAGE-HOUR ACT FROM WHITE COLLAR GROUPS

Clarify Rule Governing Pay for Overtime.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—The wage-hour administration revised its rules today for the exemption of "white collar" workers from hours restrictions of the labor standards law, establishing a $200 monthly salary as one yardstick for determining who is an exempt administrative or professional employé.

The new rules go into effect on Oct. 24, when 40 hours becomes the standard work week for all workers covered by the act. The present maximum work week without overtime pay is 42 hours.

Officials said they did not know how many persons will be affected, but that most interstate commerce establishments will be. The principal effect is expected to be exemption from the hours restrictions of many persons such as credit managers, buyers, chemists, radio artists, auditors, and others making more than $200 a month whose work can be classed as administrative or professional.

$200 Not Arbitrary Line.

The ruling does not mean that persons who perform such duties must be paid $200 a month, but only that they need not be paid overtime for work in excess of 40 hours a week if their regular salary is $200 or more.

In revising the definitions the administrations at the outset made separate classifications for "executive" and "administrative" which heretofore have been included under one definition.

An executive was defined broadly as an employé who has management duties and power to hire or fire, is paid at least $30 a week, and does no more than 20 per cent of the kind of work performed by nonexempt employés. If he does more than 20 per cent nonexempt work, he will be classed as a working foreman and entitled to overtime pay.

Classifications Defined.

An exempted administrative worker was defined as one who is engaged under only general supervision in nonmanual work related directly to management policies or general business operations which requires the exercise of discretion and independent judgment, and who receives $200 a month or more.

An exempted professional employé [other than a doctor or lawyer] was defined as one receiving $200 a month or more whose work is predominantly intellectual and varied in character, whose product cannot be standardized, and which requires "knowledge of an advanced type in a field of science or learning customarily acquired by a prolonged course of specialized intellectual instruction and study, as distinguished from a general academic education" or is "predominantly original and creative in character in a recognized field of artistic endeavor."

Sales Categories Defined.

An exempted retail sales employé was defined as one making retail sales the greater part of which are in intrastate commerce, or performing work incidental thereto, and whose work does not include more than 20 per cent of the same type of work done by nonexempt employés.

The definition of an outside salesman was revised to include persons obtaining orders or contracts for the use of facilities for which a consideration will be paid. Officials explained that this change will exempt radio and newspaper advertising salesmen. These employés must not do more than 20 per cent of the kind of work done by nonexempt employés, but office work incidental to outside sales is not to be regarded as nonexempt work.

Salary Basis Explained.

In explaining the $200 basis for exemption of administrative and professional employés, Harold Stein, hearing officer whose recommendations formed the basis for the revised rules, said that the payment of a salary commensurate with the duties of an administrative worker appeared to be the most effective check on the validity of a claim for exemption.

Stein expressed the view that titles alone are cheap, and asserted that a janitor should not be removed from the coverage of the act by merely calling him a "superintendent of maintenance."

Stein said the requirement that exempted work be "predominantly original and creative in character" would exempt musicians, composers, painters, and cartoonists, who rely on their own creative powers.

Son, 17, Shoots Father

Walter Berry, 17, and his mother, Mrs. Steve Berry, at police station.

Mother Aids Him

Walter Berry, 17 years old, shot and critically wounded his father, Steve, 40, in their home at 2239 Fullerton avenue last night. He told Lieut. James T. O'Brien of the Shakespeare avenue station that he fired when his father came into the kitchen and threatened his mother, Blanche, 35.

Steve Berry.

Mrs. Berry corroborated her son's story, saying that her husband, a machinist at the International Harvester company plant, had been drinking heavily and as he entered the kitchen said:

"I'm gonna kill you and the kid too, even if I have to get the electric chair for it."

The father was shot with a .22 caliber revolver which the son bought three weeks ago from a South Halsted street store to use in target practice. He had been keeping it in the kitchen cabinet, he told Lieut. O'Brien, and grabbed for it as his father menaced them with his fist. Mrs. Berry said her husband had previously beaten her. The elder Berry is in Alexian Brothers hospital. He was wounded twice in the abdomen.

HOUSEWIFE ROUTS BURGLAR.

Mrs. Martha Hoffman, 6721 Crozier avenue, heard a noise in her home early yesterday and turned on the lights. A burglar who had entered thru a window became so frightened he dropped most of his loot and fled.

ECONOMIST SAYS WILLKIE HAS IT WITH 297 VOTES

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 13 [Special].—Wendell Willkie will be the 33d President of the United States, if election trends that have held good for the last 70 years aren't reversed completely during the next three weeks, Carl Snyder, nationally known economist and a former president of the American Statistical association, said today in prophesying a Republican victory at the November election.

Snyder's prediction is based upon an analytical study of past national elections, employing a method of statistical projection of voting trends. Snyder, who is author of a nonfiction best seller, "Capitalism the Creator," foresees a minimum of 297 electoral votes for Willkie. This represents 31 more than the necessary 266 required for election. He gives Willkie at least 23 states.

Political forecasts by Snyder have been sustained by previous elections. His 1932 prediction, which came within 21 votes of being correct, prophesied that Franklin D. Roosevelt would get all but 80 electoral votes. In 1934 he predicted that the 1936 election would see President Roosevelt winning by as large a plurality as in 1932. Snyder also predicted the heavy Democratic reversals in the 1938 bye-elections.

STELLE, HERSHEY TO BURY HATCHET AT PARTY RALLY

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 13.—Gov. John Stelle and Harry B. Hershey of Taylorville are scheduled to exchange oratorical embraces before a massmeeting of pay rollers in the state armory here tomorrow morning. It's a pep meeting opening the final three weeks of the campaign.

Charles Bliss.

Stelle is the new boss of the statehouse political machine that taps contractors and suppliers for campaign donations, assesses state employes 2 per cent of their salary, and drives the 30,000 payrollers to canvass precincts and to erect billboards and paste windshield stickers on automobiles of friends.

Hershey is the Democratic candidate for governor who hopes to be in a position next year so he might compensate Stelle with patronage, legislative influence, and other favors.

Minute Supervision Shown.

The detailed efficiency of the state house machine was illustrated here this afternoon by Republicans in producing a photostatic copy of a letter from Clinton P. Bliss, assistant director of education and registration, and father of Charles Bliss, Hershey's campaign manager. Dated Dec. 7, 1939, it is addressed to Mrs. Marguerite Pierce, then of Panama, Ill., now of Litchfield, Ill.

[A reproduction of the letter will be found in an adjoining column.]

Mrs. Pierce had written to the assistant director to inquire about a civil service examination for a job, theoretically nonpolitical. In the reply, she and her husband, Franklin Pierce, are denounced for having failed to support the Democratic candidacy of a county supervisor last year.

Couple Out of Jobs.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Pierce were employed as attendants in November of 1937 in the Dixon state hospital for feeble minded. He was fired 30 days later after a scuffle with an inmate. She resigned voluntarily on July 31, 1938, with a good record. He was laid off a WPA job three months ago.

"This letter," said Hugh W. Cross, speaker of the house and ranking Republican office holder in Illinois, "is an example of the iron hand that has been steering the state house steam roller. The Democratic patronage office maintains secret files on present and former payrollers for quick reference in disciplining any party irregularity. Its ruthlessness is demonstrated by the abuse dealt this lady wanting a nonpolitical job."

Warns Gardeners: Killing Frost Probable Tomorrow

Gardeners were warned yesterday by Gordon E. Dunn, weather forecaster, that heavy, killing frosts were probable tomorrow night. A cool air mass moving down from the northwest was expected to drop temperatures into the low 40's Wednesday morning. A maximum temperature of 70 degrees was predicted for today.

Answer to Nonpolitical Job Seeker

(Story in adjoining column.)

Mrs. Marguerite Pierce,
Box 761,
Panama, Illinois.

Dear Mrs. Pierce:

I received your letter and have requested the Civil Service Commission to advise you when the examinations will be held.

It is with deep regret that I learned during a recent conversation that your husband fought the Democratic Ticket helping to defeat Paul Spensberger when he was a candidate for supervisor. I found this hard to believe due to the fact that you and your husband held State positions under the Democratic Administration, and I did not think you had forgotten this and owed the Democratic Party your allegiance. If it is true that your husband fought Spensberger and the Democratic Ticket, I am afraid you will find it hard to secure help of any of the Democratic Leaders in our County toward securing any future assistance.

Very truly yours,
Clinton P. Bliss

Copy of letter from Clinton Bliss, state official and father of campaign manager for Harry Hershey, Democratic candidate for governor, to woman who had inquired about civil service examination for nonpolitical job.

WILLIAM NICOL DIES AT 70.

HENRY WALLACE HAS A WORD FOR HITLER: EARNEST

That Also Goes for Duce and Lenin, He Says.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—Henry A. Wallace, to whom Republicans attribute responsibility for the current smear campaign against Wendell Willkie, today undertook to explain a passage in one of his books which praises the "earnestness" of "such men as Lenin, Mussolini, and Hitler."

In a book called "Statesmanship and Religion," published in 1934, the Democratic candidate for Vice President discussed the religious reform movements led by such men as Luther, Calvin, and Knox.

"The first thing which stands out in the lives of the reformers of the 16th century is their tremendous earnestness," said the Wallace book. "The only people of this century who seem to have a comparable earnestness are such men as Lenin, Mussolini, and Hitler."

In a formal statement today Wallace denied Republican charges that he had deleted this passage before publication of the book and recommended that they read it and see for themselves. The passage was deleted, he said, only for syndication of the book in serial form in the press.

Wallace's statement reaffirmed his belief that Hitler is tremendously earnest.

"In times of great stress hundreds of earnest people come into positions of leadership," he said. "Some of them are good and some are evil. But they are marked by a deep feeling of conviction or they would not have come into their positions of leadership. There is no questioning the intent and direct purpose characterizing the dictators."

Wallace said the Funk & Wagnalls dictionary defined "earnest" as "intent and direct in purpose; zealous, fervent." According to Webster's dictionary it also means "sincere."

Answer to Insinuations.

Wallace's praise of Hitler's "earnestness" was publicized by the Republicans because of his insinuations that the election of Willkie would be a victory for Hitler. These insinuations were made in his acceptance speech and in other public addresses. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York made a similar charge, and President Roosevelt sanctioned the smear campaign when he read aloud at a press conference a newspaper dispatch from Rome saying the axis powers opposed his reelection.

In his statement explaining his praise of Hitler's "earnestness," Wallace did not mention certain references to the Roman Catholic church in his 1934 book. For newspaper syndication a passage referring to his background of prejudice against the Roman Catholic church was deleted, but it was reinstated when the book was published.

"Before going further," the passage said, "I think it might be wise for me to give enough of my own religious background so that you can make due allowance for certain prejudices which may appear in this discussion. It happens that I was raised in the United Presbyterian church and that my grandfather was a United Presbyterian minister. The United Presbyterian ministers were educated men, well grounded in Calvinism, and many of them took delight in occasional sermons against the idolatry of the papacy. In 1928 I remember a good United Presbyterian and his wife called on me and attempted to demonstrate that in case Al Smith won the 1928 election then the last days, in truth, were upon us."

In the same book Wallace imputed certain shortcomings to Protestantism. He declared that "the great religions of the world have for the most part abdicated during the last 50 years, and perhaps even for much longer than that."

His Opinion of Capitalism.

"I am inclined to agree with Tawney and Weber that capitalism is a rather natural outgrowth of Protestanism; and I would go further in saying that socialism, communism, and Fascism are in turn rather natural developments from capitalism," Wallace wrote.

"Spiritually they are all much alike. Capitalism has commanded, and even today commands, a material type of religious fervor which is as unreasonable, dogmatic, and theoretical as any long established theology."

TVA QUIZ ENDED BEFORE IT WAS REALLY BEGUN

New Dealers Made Sure It Solved Nothing.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—The congressional investigation into the operations of the Tennessee Valley authority was choked off in January, 1939, with not one of the important phases of the inquiry developed to the point where an authoritative verdict could be rendered.

The electric power yardstick remained a mystery.

An audit of the TVA books was uncompleted, as was a government general accounting office report on TVA's strange accounting system.

The policies of the TVA board of directors, into which congress had directed a thoro investigation, remained virtually unexplored.

Some 50 important witnesses were waiting to be called.

Revelations of Auditor.

Based upon evidence in the congressional investigating committee's files and upon his own personal observations, W. O. Heffernan, secretary and auditor in chief of the committee, made these disclosures in relating the final chapter of the great whitewash of the New Deal's half billion dollar venture in socialism.

Early in January, 1939, a suspicion grew among committee attachés that there was a quiet move on to discontinue the hearings. Heffernan was indignant. On Jan. 6, 1939, he wrote to Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], the chairman, protesting against ending of the investigation until "the truth about TVA" had been given the public.

Excerpts from Letter.

Portions of the secretary-auditor's letter, which was not of course made public at the time, are printed here for the first time.

"Thus far," Heffernan wrote Donahey, "we have shown the yardstick to be neither of value as a unit of measurement nor an aid to accurate and correct accounting. From the public point of view, determination of a proper yardstick is of chief importance.

"The committee has had revealed to it strange ways of accounting and peculiar bookkeeping which sets down as 'net expense' a total which practical bookkeepers would designate as a 'loss.'

"The audit of the TVA books has not been completed. The committee has not received a full report from the general accounting office on TVA expenditures from 1935 to 1938 inclusive, and there have been discrepancies between the authority's annual reports and reports submitted in its behalf to the congress.

"Country Wants Truth."

"The country wants the truth about TVA, and congress should see to it that this committee completes its job.

"The three important phases the committee was instructed to explore were: [1] the policies of the TVA board of directors; [2] the accounting system; [3] TVA rates and operating policies as a yardstick for the production of power.

"Not one of these phases has yet been explored to the point of certainty.

"So, the committee has as yet no analyzed information on which to lay out the base for the TVA yardstick nor upon which to build its final report, which must not be preliminary and must not be tentative. The value of its work will lie in the finality of its conclusions in a complete report based upon facts and not mere political gestures.

"Apprehension over TVA affairs must be ended by this committee and there must be coincided the conflicting opinions about whether or not there has been any investigation."

Barred from Meetings.

After the writing of that letter, Heffernan was excluded from the meetings of the committee's Democratic majority with General Committee Counsel Francis Biddle. These meetings eventually resulted in a decree by Senator Donahey that no more hearings would be held. Donahey thus ignored a promise to the Republican minority when the hearings were recessed in December, 1938, that additional sessions would be held the following month.

Heffernan also described another instance of evidence suppression.

Damage Claims Involved.

The Democratic majority and Republican minority had agreed that Secretary Heffernan should be custodian of all claims filed with the committee which related to damages to land inundated by dams. Many of these claims were considered similar to those initiated by former Senator George L. Berry and associates for a minimum of $5,000,000 and which were assailed by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, the deposed TVA chairman, as "an effort at a barefaced steal."

These documents were of great importance in the committee's investigation into the damage done in the Tennessee valley by the TVA experiment.

On July 21, 1938, there was a heated discussion at an executive session of the committee. Heffernan revealed. Biddle had demanded that the claims be turned over to him for inspection before the committee saw them. The Republican minority held out for Heffernan as the sole custodian, recalling Donahey's introduction of the secretary as an official who would work "fairly and impartially, for the minority as well as the majority."

Donahey Takes Over.

Finally, when the debate grew bitter, Senator Donahey said he would settle the dispute by taking over possession of the claims. He promised to pass upon them personally.

"Not 24 hours later," Heffernan said, "the claims were in Biddle's possession. He thereafter passed upon them and had complete control over them, deciding which claims the committee should see."

It was also disclosed that Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.] submitted to Chairman Donahey a list of witnesses compiled by Wolverton, Senator James J. Davis [R., Pa.], and Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.].

This list was headed by the name of former Controler General John R. McCarl, whose account of the dispute raging between the general accounting office and the TVA would have been of great value to the committee. It was well known that McCarl's testimony would not have placed the TVA in a favorable light.

The list also contained the names of high TVA officials whom General Counsel Biddle had carefully refrained from calling, presumably after learning the nature of their testimony. High officials of the Federal Power commission were also named as desirable witnesses in connection with the yardstick problem.

Wolverton proposed the questioning of officers of the International Agricultural corporation of New York, which made a profit of more than $500,000 on the sale of phosphate lands to the TVA. He requested also that department of justice officials who made an investigation of the phosphate land purchases be summoned. The department of justice report was never made public on the ground that it mentioned "persons prominent in public and in the business community" and was of a "confidential" nature.

Both the protest of Heffernan and the request of Wolverton were ignored by Donahey, who then made his announcement that no more hearings would be held.

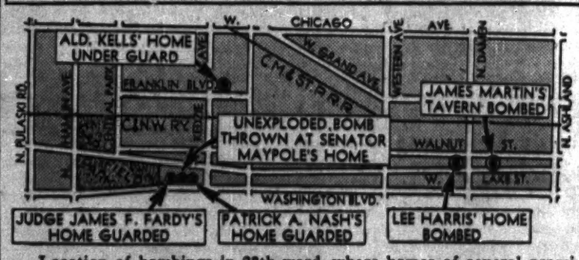
Biddle Writes Report.

Biddle then went to work on the committee's report, which was issued in the name of Senator Donahey and the Democratic majority on April 3, 1939. It exonerated the TVA in every instance of charge of dishonesty, waste, and inefficiency.

There was a stinging minority report by the Republican members, charging waste and inefficiency.

Summing up the investigation, Secretary-Auditor Heffernan declared: "It was the greatest whitewash ever handed a government agency."

Seek Bomb Clews in Gaming Strife



Location of bombings in 28th ward, where homes of several prominent politicians are being guarded. Police say gambling is back of the bomb throwing.

Five in Series

Police guards were stationed at the homes of several prominent Democratic leaders in the 28th ward yesterday following an attempt late Saturday to bomb the home of State Senator George Maypole, 3262 Washington boulevard. This was the fifth bomb plot attributed to an unknown extortionist who is seeking $20,000 from James Martin, colored boss of a policy ring, who is said to control the Negro vote of the ward. The bomb failed to explode.

Homes being protected included those of Patrick A. Nash, Democratic county chairman and co-leader with Mayor Kelly of the Kelly-Nash political organization, at 3234 Washington boulevard and Chief Justice James F. Fardy of the Criminal court, a protégé of Nash, at 3264 Washington boulevard. Ald. George Kells, a protegé of Nash, was given a police guard for his home at 3146 Franklin boulevard last month.

The first bombing was at the home of Charles Bartels, secretary to Nash, at 35 North Mayfield avenue. The next bomb, believed to have been intended for the home of Martin in Maywood, damaged the residence of a neighbor. Bombs were planted later at Martin's tavern, 1900 West Lake street, and at the home of Normal Harris, Negro Democratic precinct captain, 2011 Walnut street.

CHUTE SNAGS ON FALLING PLANE, BUT PILOT LIVES

Fort Lewis, Wash., Oct. 13 (AP).—Lieut. Felix Hardison today told of his narrow escape from death:

Up 4,000 feet in a heavy fog, one of the motors on his B-10 army bomber went "haywire." He went over the side, but his unopened parachute caught on the plane. Unable to release himself or climb back into the plane, he dangled there for what seemed minutes, certain that death was near.

As the falling plane gained momentum, the force of the wind tore the parachute free. Hardison jerked the rip cord and floated to safety. The plane crashed and burned.

MRS. TAFT HAILS WILLKIE AS HOPE OF U.S. SALVATION

1,500 Hear Plea to 'Switch Horses in Stream.'

"In these precarious times we in America are fortunate to be able to change horses in the middle of the stream, to change from one that is floundering in the mire of dictatorial tendencies to one that will carry us safely to the firm footing of democracy."

This was the message of Mrs. Martha Taft, wife of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, in a vigorous campaign talk for Wendell L. Willkie before 1,500 women and men in the Highland Park High school yesterday afternoon.

Sponsored by Women's Clubs.

The meeting was sponsored by the Highland Park Republican Women's club in conjunction with other Republican women's clubs in the 10th Congressional district.

"We are more than fortunate to have a candidate for the Presidency like Wendell Willkie, a man who has proven himself a real American and a good business man," Mrs. Taft asserted. "We are fortunate to be able to back at the present time a man who is most capable of handling the important business of our national defense program.

"We face the biggest challenge in our history today. We must choose between a centralized government in Washington or a government by the people; between debts and deficits or a future for our children; between evasion of the constitution or loyal observance to it; between staying out of war or being pushed into it."

Urges Families to Campaign.

Mrs. Taft appealed to her audience to urge their entire families to campaign for the Republican ticket. "We must make it clear to every one we meet," she said, "that a third term is an attack on our form of government."

Mrs. Taft was introduced by Gen. Robert E. Wood, a former Democrat, who predicted that 60 days after the Presidential election the United States would be in war if Roosevelt were reelected.

The same note was reiterated by Wayland Brooks, Republican candidate for United States senator. "Twenty-four years ago," he said, "the Democratic administration said they would keep us out of war if the nation would return them to power. The minute they were reinstalled, however, they put us in that other world war. If the Democratic New Deal administration is continued in power it will put us in another war more bloody than anything we have ever experienced."

Bandits Listen to Y.M.C.A. Lecture, Then Take the $35

When two gunmen held up James Waller, 26 years old, an employé of the commissary department of the Lawson Y. M. C. A., he offered them food, jobs, and the comforts of religion. The two robbers listened to a five minute lecture on the evils of the way they had chosen. Then they took $35 from Waller and fled.

SPECIAL CANVASS TO START TODAY IN LODGING AREA

A special canvass of registrations in the hotel and lodging house area of the 1st, 27th, 42d, and 20th wards will be begun today by canvassers of the board of election commissioners, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki said yesterday. Judge Jarecki indicated the registration list of the Weston hotel, 355 Madison street, will receive special attention.

Judge Jarecki's statement came two days after William F. Galling, who until Friday was a resident of the Hamilton hotel, 18 South Dearborn street, compelled hotel employés to strike 25 names from the list of voters registered at the Hamilton. Galling, a Republican, said he later was ousted from the hotel by Sam Leeds, who owns both the Hamilton hotel and the Weston hotel.

A report of Charles S. Edelman, who was canvassing the Hamilton hotel registration list when Galling took his action, is to be turned over today to John F. Cashen, special attorney for the election board.

WOMEN TO MARK 'NO 3D TERM DAY' WITH NEIGHBORS

"No Third Term" day will be observed in a neighborly manner by the women of Illinois Wednesday, Oct. 23. Thruout the state women will assemble in their own or their neighbors' homes to hear Wendell L. Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, speak over a nation wide hook-up and to discuss the broadcast in a series of "living room chats."

Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois national committeeman, thru the Illinois Republican coördinating committee, of which Perry John TenHoor is chairman, has issued a call to all voters to attend these neighborhood radio meetings.

"These living room meetings," Schroeder said, "constitute the democratic method of meeting the greatest challenge to democracy that the United States ever has known."

THE CAMPAIGN
Both Sides of it

REPUBLICAN

(Provided by the Republican National Committee.)

Toward War — and Unprepared for It.

The American people have had their eyes opened in the last few days by the headlines from Tokio and Washington.

They are beginning to realize that Mr. Roosevelt's boasted "genius" for handling foreign affairs is leading us closer and closer to war.

Not only is it leading us toward war, but it is leading us toward war while we are still woefully unprepared.

The American people are with both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie in extending every aid to Britain "short of war." They know that Britain's battle is our battle—that giving whatever material and moral aid we can to her is our best chance of keeping out of war.

But they have just seen Mr. Roosevelt, by ill-advised meddling in the far east, push and prod Japan into a military alliance with the axis powers.

Our Pathetic Defense.

We've got a one ocean navy. It is adequate to fight in the Pacific while the British navy looks after the Atlantic. But it is unequal to the task of fighting in both oceans, if it ever has to take on that job.

We've got a small—a pathetically small—air force, less than 750 first line combat planes. Germany has sent more than that number over London in one evening.

We've got an even smaller mechanized land force. It's short of practically everything a modern army needs.

Mr. Roosevelt has adroitly sought to cover up our unpreparedness by making "nonpolitical" trips to various arsenals, getting himself photographed in front of big guns, and generally spreading the impression that things are going fine.

Those are the facts. They're on the record. They can't be refuted by phony photographs or fireside chats. And why we should now give another four years of power to an individual who has blundered so dangerously in both defense and diplomacy doesn't add up.

What does add up is this:

ROOSEVELT [Plus] THIRD TERM [Equals] WAR.

WILLKIE [Plus] NATIONAL DEFENSE [Equals] PEACE.

DEMOCRATIC

Liberals Bolt Fading Willkie

Superman Throws the Bull.

The reign of terror which always marks the closing weeks of Republican campaigning has failed to halt the parade of progressive Republicans away from the Willkie banner.

The latest former G. O. P. governor to advocate the reelection of President Roosevelt as the safest course for the United States to pursue is Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, a lifelong crusader against the corrupt Republican plunderbund in the Keystone state, after a call at the White House.

Two other former Republican governors, Chase S. Osborn of Michigan and John G. Winant of New Hampshire, have likewise declared for Roosevelt. They are cooperating with Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska and Senator Bob La Follette of Wisconsin, in swinging the millions of independent and liberal voters behind the Democratic Presidential ticket. Both Pinchot and Osborn supported Landon in 1936.

Meanwhile Candidate Willkie has reached down into the G. O. P. cellar and fetched up the odd assortment of Halloween ghosts, witches, bogeymen, and goblins which were strung up by the great engineer, Mr. Hoover, in 1932, and again by Alf Landon in 1936, in the effort to terrorize the American electorate.

A campaign of desperation and terror always betrays itself. The Republicans know Willkie has slipped and they are frantically trying to head off the inevitable. Their latest effort is to knock down the Gallup poll on the strength of which Willkie was nominated at Philadelphia. They have resurrected, as an offset, the Roger C. Dunn survey to prove that Willkie has a commanding lead in electorial votes at the present writing.

Good old Roger, whoever he is, performed the same service for Alf Landon in 1936. He showed that Alf would carry 33 states with 377 electoral votes. Poor F. D. R. was only sure of 12 states. Just to infuse new spirit into the Republicans, it might be well to point out that the average error of Dr. Gallup in 15 key states in 1936 was not 3 or 4 per cent, as he says, but 7½ per cent—all against Roosevelt. Joe Martin will have to shop a bit further for a new Literary Digest poll.

Landon centered his fire on the social security program and the pay envelope campaign. Now Willkie is the indispensable man.

G. O. P. TO OPEN INTENSIVE CITY DRIVE THIS WEEK

Party Has Field to Itself; Dozen Rallies Planned.

Republican state candidates will have the Chicago field to themselves this week and will take full advantage of their first mass invasion of the metropolis with a dozen meetings today and tomorrow.

The two Democratic caravans, which already have spent one week in Cook county, will continue their downstate travels until the final fortnight of the campaign. But the Republicans, with the big city the chief battleground against the opposition machine, canceled earlier plans and arranged to spend nearly all the final three weeks of the contest here.

Their local efforts, however, will be interrupted. Wednesday evening they will go to Kankakee for a special massmeeting and probably will appear that same evening at a Vermilion county rally still to be arranged.

Two Days Left Free.

Thursday and Friday have been left free because probably all of the Illinois candidates again will accompany Wendell L. Willkie as he crosses and recrosses the state on those days. En route to St. Louis, where Willkie speaks Thursday night, the Presidential nominee's train will make stops in McLeansboro, Mount Vernon, Nashville, and Belleville.

Friday night Willkie is to address a massmeeting in the state arsenal in Springfield, and on his way to the state capital will stop in nearby Jacksonville early in the evening. The Illinois group with him is expected to include National Committeeman Werner W. Schroeder and State Chairman Ben L. Berve. From Springfield Willkie goes into Minnesota and Wisconsin, with no stops in Illinois. His next appearance in the state will be at the massmeeting Oct. 22 in the Chicago Stadium.

Green to Make Radio Talk.

As has been his practice, Dwight H. Green, nominee for governor, will start the week with an evening radio address before a selected audience in the La Salle hotel. This time the guests will be city and county officials from downstate and the Cook county suburbs.

Among the downstate mayors expected are Mark B. Hayes, Bloomington; Albert Hattenburg, Kankakee; Robert P. Galbraith, Rock Island; John W. Kapp, Springfield; Frank P. Meyer, Danville; Charles Lee, Decatur; Hugh J. Hakala, De Kalb; Myron M. Lehman, Elgin, and Luke Stuart, Freeport.

Three Chicago ward meetings are scheduled for all or some of the candidates tonight. They will be at 4410 Diversey avenue [35th], Belmont hall, Belmont avenue and Clark street [46th], and 7515 Yates avenue [7th].

MICHIGAN, LONG G. O. P., RATED AS DOUBTFUL STATE

Industrialization Helps Alter Complexion.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13.—It looks like a horse race in Michigan, once hallowed in campaign oratory for "Rock Ribbed" Republicanism, a state never carried by a Democratic candidate for President from 1852 to 1932.

W. A. Comstock, [Top] Arthur J. Lacy, Democratic leaders, supporting Willkie.

Again the appeal of Mr. Roosevelt to the Michigan electorate is a potent one, so potent that the Republican leaders write the state down as doubtful. The Democratic managers, while confident of victory, are expecting but a fraction of former Roosevelt pluralities which were 132,000 in 1932 and 300,000 in 1936.

The change in the political complexion of Michigan has been wrought chiefly by the industrialization of this region. Southeast Michigan with its great factory employed population in Detroit, Saginaw, Pontiac, Flint, and Bay City, has become one of the principal manufacturing centers of the country, the automobile making capital of the world.

Unionized Mainly by C. I. O.

The plants manufacturing automobiles and parts therefore have been unionized preponderantly by the radical Congress of Industrial Organizations which staged the sitdown strike of 1937 in the General Motors factories. Mr. Roosevelt aided and abetted the sitdown, particularly after John Lewis turned the heat on him to deliver in return for the $600,000 Lewis raised for the Roosevelt campaign fund in 1936.

The C. I. O. is now standing by Mr. Roosevelt, tho he is not likely to get more than 75 per cent of its vote. There is a substantial proportion of workers who are paying dues to the C. I. O. only because that is their only way to get and hold a job but who are conservatives and presumably favorable to Willkie. The communist C. I. O. faction which supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1936, will vote this time for their Presidential candidate, Earl Browder.

War Figures Prominently.

In this region with its great population of foreign extraction war issues figure prominently in the influence swaying various groups. Mr. Roosevelt's belligerent attitude toward Hitler has won the President the devotion of the Polish-Americans who constitute virtually the entire population of Hamtramck, an independent municipality within the city of Detroit. On the other hand the Italian-Americans have turned against the President because of his "stab in the back" Charlottesville speech aimed at Mussolini.

The business community, including the small tradesmen, exclusive of Jews, are for Willkie, canvasses reveal. The farmers are overwhelmingly Republican. A large proportion of those who voted for Roosevelt now are back in the G. O. P. fold.

Vandenberg Picked To Win.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, who is the country's leading noninterventionist, is regarded as certain of reelection despite his opposition to the Roosevelt war policies and the draft, is regarded as certain of reelection. He is opposed by Frank FitzGerald, an obscure young lawyer who is indorsed by the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L.

The Democratic canvass for Roosevelt is distinguished by the absence of the figures that have headed the party in this state since it gained power in 1932. William A. Comstock, former governor and the angel of the party for many years, heads the organization of Willkie Democrats. Arthur J. Lacy, the party's candidate for governor in 1934, is supporting Willkie.

Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, 81 years old, Republican, has strong opposition in the Democratic candidate, young Murray D. Van Wagoner, commissioner of highways, who may be aided by some Republican disaffection.

ROOSEVELT URGES GENEROUS GIFTS TO COMMUNITY CHESTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—President Roosevelt asked Americans everywhere tonight to help "fortify the structure of our whole union" by enlisting in the 1940 mobilization for human needs, the annual fund raising campaign of community chests thruout the land.

The President, broadcasting from the White House, joined in a nationwide program in which Hollywood stars and Charles Francis Adams, chairman of the drive, participated. Mr. Roosevelt said there was particular need for liberal contributions this year.

"Events abroad have warned us not only of the need of planes and tanks, and ships and guns," he said; "they have also warned us of the need of grit and sacrifice, of daring and devotion, and all those intangible things which go to make up a nation's morale."

BOY, 10, KILLED IN FALL.

Peter Pastos, 10 years old, 2639 Potomac avenue, was injured fatally Saturday night when he touched an electric wire while climbing a light pole at 1119 North Francisco avenue and fell 30 feet to the pavement, incurring a skull fracture.

PLEDGES LABOR TO DEFENSE OF AMERICAN WAY

Mount Olive, Ill., Oct. 13 (AP).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared today that members of his organization stand ready to "work, sacrifice, and fight, if necessary, in defense of the American way of life."

Speaking at memorial services for the victims of the 1898 Virden riot and for the 21 members of the Progressive Mine Workers of America who lost their lives in interunion mine strife in Illinois since 1932, Green said:

"We have helped make democracy secure by fighting social and economic injustice and obtaining the enactment of a great body of social legislation. In these days, when the forces of hatred, oppression, and dictatorship have engulfed most of Europe and are making threatening gestures toward America, we of the American Federation of Labor stand stalwartly in support of our government, ready to work, sacrifice, and fight, if necessary, in defense of the American way of life."

Green recalled how 50 miners won their battle against "strikebreakers" in the Virden outbreak on Oct. 12, 1898, at the cost of seven dead and many wounded. He paid tribute to them; to their leader, Gen. Alexander Bradley, and to "Mother" Mary Jones, who often has been called the "Joan of Arc of labor."

NATIONAL WINE WEEK
OCTOBER 13-20

With your dinner tonight drink Wine

● In honor of National Wine Week, special selections of wine are offered by wine retailers today. Check up on your own home wine cellar. Or if you don't now serve wine, make this the occasion to find out why wine-serving is so popular.

Discover how red Claret or pale gold Chablis turns even the simple meal into a feast. And try serving Sherry at appetizer time. Or a sweet dessert wine like Port or Muscatel in the evening. You'll be amazed to find how many of your guests prefer a moderate beverage.

TIPS ON SERVING WINE

TABLE WINES go best with meals. They are made "dry" (not sweet) to complement food. Try tart, red Burgundy or Claret; delicate, golden Sauterne or Chablis (well chilled)... in servings half water glass size.

SWEET WINES go best with refreshments and desserts. They are made rich with the natural sweetness of the grape. Try red Port or golden Muscatel. Serve either in a small glass.

AN APPETIZER WINE like Sherry is best before dinner. Sherry is amber, nutlike in flavor. This good wine is usually served in a cocktail-size glass.

An ANNOUNCEMENT

GENERAL MOTORS recognizes the present emergency. It realizes its duty to the nation to advance in every way within its power the program of National Defense. It has already assumed most important obligations. But in addition General Motors believes that industry today has a second responsibility—one of vital consequence. American defense demands first call on those products of industry, both as to scope and volume, which are essential to protecting the nation against aggression. It also demands, even though the fact be less generally recognized, a sound and virile economy. One is the complement of the other. A sound economy is essential to the objectives of the defense program.

In line with its conception of this dual responsibility, General Motors presents at this time its 1941 offerings of motor cars. It has combined with the important responsibilities it has assumed under the defense program its normal responsibilities incident to our peacetime economy. The new line of motor cars is now on display before the critical judgment of the public at the Automobile Shows and in General Motors dealer showrooms in every community throughout the land.

It has always been the policy of General Motors to build into its products the greatest possible measure of value. It has created an engineering group which, from the very beginning of the industry, has made far-reaching contributions to technical progress. It has contributed importantly to the motor car's becoming the serviceable mechanism of today. From the electric self-starter in the early days down through the years, one engineering achievement has followed another. And in great variety: tilt-beam headlights, Duco lacquer finishes, crankcase ventilation, syncro-mesh transmission, Fisher No Draft Ventilation, Knee-Action wheels, Turret Top, automatic transmissions and steering column gearshift.

But that is not all! General Motors technicians have demonstrated their versatility by developing such engineering products as the Diesel locomotive, destined to revolutionize transportation by rail. The Allison engine—an outstanding development in aviation engine practice and now coming into mass production—is making a contribution to one highly technical phase of the problem of National Defense. And in an allied field, tetraethyl lead as a component of gasoline has revolutionized the relationship of the fuel to the engine, producing more power with less weight and with greater efficiency. As a result, not an airplane leaves the ground today without in effect reflecting tribute to the technical capacity of General Motors. We are proud of this record of accomplishment. It is the accumulated experience of such an engineering group that has been built into the General Motors 1941 models.

In the different lines of motor cars comprising the General Motors offerings, there will be found countless refinements and innovations—some in some cars, some in others, but reflected to an important degree in all:

A technical improvement of importance is a new fuel system—Compound Carburetion. It is an innovation in motor car engineering practice. To the regular carburetion system is added a second, or supplemental, carburetor which can come into action when the driver requires additional performance. In effect, but not in principle, it is like the supercharger. The engineering benefits resulting from this achievement take the form of added performance and increased fuel economy. This is exemplified in Buick.

A safety feature worthy of note, based upon the Unisteel Turret Top body introduced by General Motors some years ago, consists of all doors being swung from the front. Thus they open against the windstream of a car in motion. This tends to eliminate the hazard of doors swinging open if accidentally unlatched. The same feature provides greater convenience for front and rear door passengers alighting from the car at the same time.

A year ago General Motors announced a new mechanism to connect the axle with the engine—the Hydra-Matic drive. You simply steer! The clutch is entirely eliminated. That is a most important feature. The changes in gear ratio or speeds are automatic. This device is designed to take the transmission out of driving technique. And it does! This has been exemplified in Oldsmobile. The outstanding acceptance of this Hydra-Matic drive as evidenced by the testimony of many thousands of enthusiastic users has had a stimulating effect in accelerating the industry's progress in this important field. Thus is progress broadened. In a more highly refined and somewhat simplified form the Hydra-Matic drive will be continued in the 1941 line. You certainly will be intrigued when you see and try this interesting mechanism.

But the modern motor car has become more than something in which to go from place to place. For many it is something to live with. Hence more comfort, more luxury of appointment and increased roominess characterize the new designs. General Motors 1941 cars are larger. The seats are wider. Thus there is more room for both passengers and baggage. The concealment of running boards inside the body is another innovation. The appointments are more luxurious. These should be important considerations in determining the motor car you will drive in 1941.

Nor is that all! The "Torpedo" type—the body sensation of 1940—has been continued with even greater appeal. And there has been added another body creation—the aerodynamic type. Everyone should see and try it!

General Motors hopes that when you have seen and become acquainted with these 1941 motor cars you will be as enthusiastic about them as we are. And that you will get as great a thrill out of their interesting features, their performance, attractiveness, serviceability and utility as we have in their creation and in presenting them to you at this time.

THE ETHICS OF THE NEW DEAL.

When Mr. Roosevelt was new and fresh in the first term he issued an order that Democratic politicians should either get out of the party managing organization or drop any activities which had to do with governmental business. He wouldn't have them running around Washington using their political position to get business for themselves or their clients.

This self-denying ordinance resulted in a few withdrawals from the national committee. They included Nellie Ross of Wyoming, Arthur Mullen of Nebraska, and Max Gardiner of North Carolina. Jim Farley, however, remained chairman of the committee and postmaster general, the big patronage job.

But the order didn't mean anything.

The Roosevelt family moved into money making enterprises which depended entirely for success upon the White House connection. Jimmy took his in insurance and the movies, where governmental influence would count. Elliott tried airplanes and then landed in radio, where again the official wiring was needed. Mrs. Roosevelt's value as columnist, lecturer, and radio commentator is largely established by her position. Mr. Roosevelt has added to his income by literary sidelines. It is estimated that the eight years will stand the family about $2,500,000.

Mr. Wallace, the secretary of agriculture, and his family have made a very profitable thing by combining the production of hybrid corn seed with the AAA reduction of corn acreage. Mr. Wallace's Iowa neighbors think he will have about a million dollars' increase in wealth as his share in the benefits of the farm relief program. Recently Mr. Chip Roberts of Georgia resigned from his post as secretary of the Democratic national committee in consequence of repeated disclosures that he and his firm were getting rich on fees connected with government contracts.

The New Dealers are scourging the private profit takers with whips of scorpions because they tried to make money, but the New Deal has established a standard of personal ethics for itself which is certainly lower than any ever before discovered at the top of a federal administration.

In this regard, it is only a small item that Mr. Ickes, one of the scorpions, has the caretaker of his Winnetka estate on the Skokie CCC project pay rolls as a supervisor. The government pays the salary, and the supervisor keeps Mr. Ickes' house open and his grounds in condition. The supervisor gets his home for his spare time work; Mr. Ickes pays for an occasional day's work and gets his property maintained virtually for nothing. This isn't a big misuse of a public trust. Probably the fact that it is a small abuse is even more significant.

The New Dealers have thrown other people's money around for over seven years with such disregard for the people who have to give it to them that they have lost all conscience. They beat the ears of everybody who tries to succeed in private business, and they made a very good job of preventing many of them, big and little, from making any profits. But at every opportunity they pare something off for themselves, a small slice or a large one.

They take little mean advantages and whopping big ones. They pick up a penny here and a dollar there. They make low alliances with political corruptionists, and that's understandable, because they have revealed that their own sense of what is upright in political conduct is very dull.

Persons of fine feeling for the proprieties of public office and scrupulous regard for the ethics inherent in a public trust would have put such schemes away from them instinctively. They would have been indignant if such profit taking had been suggested to them. Something more powerful than any law would have governed. That would have been their inner sense of what was right and what was wrong.

In contrast is the conduct of American business men of the very class constantly assailed by the New Deal name callers. These men are now serving their country for nothing and have given up their salaries to do so. They have retired from their private enterprises to avoid any thought that they were using a private connection in handling public business. It has cost some of them a lot of money, but that is their standard of public ethics.

OUR CHURCHILL FOR OUR CHAMBERLAIN.

The argument of the third termites is that the middle of a national emergency is no time to change executives. What is it that sounds so familiar about that line of reasoning? O, yes, it was the ground taken by those who urged that Neville Chamberlain shouldn't be turned out of office in an even greater crisis in Great Britain.

The reasoning was so logical that a man was kept in office at the head of the British government who permitted his nation's defenses to lag far behind those of a rival that was steadily becoming more powerful, more menacing, and more defiant. While the international relations of the country were badly deteriorating, Chamberlain made no adequate effort to bring the armament of his nation up to a parity with its potential enemy. Does any one now seriously contend that the British made a mistake in changing executives in the middle of their emergency?

Mr. Roosevelt bears so strong a likeness to Mr. Chamberlain that the comparison is not even funny. And why should that not be true? They often acted in unison in matters of diplomacy. Each allowed the foreign affairs of his country to get to the crisis stage before attempting to improve them. Both failed to rearm their countries while issuing defiant statements to nations well armed. The significant difference between the two men is that Chamberlain safeguarded the finances of his nation with a scrupulously balanced budget, while Mr. Roosevelt spent like a prodigal for everything but the national defenses, and undermined his nation's finances.

Mr. Chamberlain remained in office too long. So has Mr. Roosevelt. England replaced its Chamberlain with Churchill, a man who has demonstrated brilliantly his ability to rally all of the forces of his country in its emergency. The United States needs a new man. It needs a new man who can rally the industries, the financial organization, the engineering talent, and the man power of the country in overcoming the military deficiencies resulting from Mr. Roosevelt's neglect. We have our Winston Churchill in Wendell Willkie.

A PLEDGE AND ITS WORTH.

At Dayton Mr. Roosevelt said once again that he is not contemplating any foreign military adventures. America is arming, he said, not to send another American expeditionary force to fight in Europe or Asia, not for aggression, but to defend the Americas.

While every one will hope that Mr. Roosevelt, if elected, will honor this pledge, the voters can hardly overlook Mr. Roosevelt's long record of preelection promises and his short record of keeping them. As a candidate Mr. Roosevelt has been anything but candid. For example, the theme of his campaign in 1932 was his solemn promise to reduce government expenditures and so to balance the budget. He did just the opposite. In 1936 he promised permanent prosperity and jobs for every one but said nothing about packing the Supreme court. Within a few months of his reelection he was attempting to pack the court, and a new recession with an accompanying increase in unemployment was generated.

And so on. It is improbable that at his age his habits of mind can undergo a sudden change, and, as a matter of fact, there is ample evidence to prove that if they have changed it has not been for the better. He is, if anything, less candid today than he was in 1932 or 1936, and he has, if anything, less regard for the truth.

The measure of his integrity today is his pretense that he is not making political tours this year and that he is not making political speeches. He says he is inspecting the nation's preparations for defense. These are not the explanations offered for him by some apologist but his own declaration of his own purposes.

A man who is inspecting factories does not hire a train with a dining car elaborately equipped with radio apparatus; he does not surround himself with press agents and reporters; he does not spend the greater part of his time showing himself to the populace and conferring with politicians, big and little; and he does not confine his inspections to politically strategic areas. He doesn't make his visits of inspection the occasion for knocking off work and thus interfering with the production that he came to inspect.

Mr. Roosevelt declined Mr. Willkie's invitation to debate by saying that he had no time for campaigning. That was another untruth. He is devoting the greater part of his time to electioneering, as every one knows.

This is the same Mr. Roosevelt who asks the country to believe him when he says that he is not contemplating any foreign military adventures. It is perhaps unnecessary to add that merely for its defense against aggression this country has no need of the standing army of a million and a half or two million men which Mr. Roosevelt is mustering. An army of that size, however, is none too large if an expeditionary force is to be sent to slaughter overseas.

THE JOHNSON CONVICTION.

The conviction in the federal district court here of William R. Johnson and five of his henchmen raises a question. They were found guilty of income tax evasion. An income running into millions of dollars in a few years was traced to Johnson. The money came principally from the operation of gambling joints. The operation of a gambling house is a violation of the laws of Illinois.

And now the question or rather the questions: Why did it remain for the federal court to prosecute and convict this habitual breaker of Illinois law? Why did it remain for the federal court to convict Capone, the gangster and murderer? What is the matter with our local and state processes of criminal justice? Why don't the local police arrest these offenders for violating our statutes and ordinances? Why don't the state's attorneys prosecute them? Why don't the state's Criminal courts convict them?

It doesn't have to be so. In New York the gangsters and racketeers are on the run, thanks to convictions in the state courts, not the federal courts; thanks to prosecution not by a United States district attorney but by the district attorney of Manhattan, Thomas E. Dewey.

Editorial of the Day

[Baltimore Sun.]

The achievement of Washington Dane Graves of Stafford, Conn., who is said to have kept a diary for 74 years, is stupendous, if it is true. The point needs no argument. Most people, at one time or another—usually early in life—have tried keeping a diary, and most have found it presently degenerating into something resembling Mark Twain's famous effort which, day after day, consisted of the same three entries: "Got up. Washed. Went to bed."

The very men whose daily activities would be of most interest to later generations are the men least likely to keep diaries, for men at the center of events have little time to spend recording occurrences. Pepys is one of the great exceptions to this rule, but even Pepys held out for only about 10 years. The Connecticut man is supposed to have started his diary at 19 and to have kept it consistently to his present age of 93. This is probably a world's record, and it should make Mr. Graves a subject of interest to psychologists and historians.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

MR. PEPYS COMES UP FOR AIR.

14th Oct.—Having had my nose to the grindstone for about a month, preparing my Line Book for 1940, I do propose to take it easy for a while and perform nothing but my regular chores. I will walk abroad in the week-ends, admiring the colors of the changing season and watching the migrating birds, and practicing snapshots with my camera, at which art I am not as proficient as I should be. I will go to the football games, as I did last Saturday, whooping it up for Northwestern or the Bears or any team I happen to fancy, and thus will renew my youth, which needs some renewing, and get plenty of fresh air.

I will go to my tailor for new suitings of warm woolens, in order to be ready for the cold weather to come, and if I happen to buy more than I need I will not repent or accuse myself of extravagance. I will get from the circulating libraries a cartload of tales about murders and detective work and stirring adventures, and will read them o' nights until the cock crows for the coming of the dawn. I will dawdle in bed until 11 a. m., which every one says is scandalous, or even until 12, if I choose. I will go to every play that comes to town, and to a concert now and then to help Frederick Stock celebrate the 50th anniversary of his orchestra.

And if any one says to me in a tone of reprimand, "Mr. Pepys, you are behaving like a gentleman of leisure, which is not your custom," I will answer, "Yes, indeed; that is my intention, for I have only one job now and I propose to make the most of it."

WHEN THE GEESE FLY SOUTH.

O, the world belongs to the hunter
When his dogs have struck a trail
That leads thru the splendor of autumn
To the hiding place of quail.

It's a strange elixir that tingles
In the veins of dogs and men
When the mallards feed in the marshes
And the geese fly south again.

And a paw that's padded of velvet
Means an eager chase concealed
Till the whirring of silver feathers
Brings a wing-shot from the field.

O, the world belongs to the hunter
And his dogs that quest the air
Till the wind of the woodland answers
That the game is hidden there.

BLAME WATER FOR MOTTLED TEETH.

EVERY little while we encounter a youngster who exhibits peculiar spots on the teeth. The areas resemble chalky white patches plastered on the surface. In consequence, an unnatural glare is observed when the mouth is open. Sometimes the enamel is pitted and there is a tendency to chipping. Staining may also be noted and the discolorations vary from black to light yellow. The defects are seen more frequently on the central structures [the incisors] than on the molars.

In many instances the cause may be ascribed to the existence of the element, fluorine, in the water and the disorder comes on only during the growth of the permanent set. Once the "ivories" have formed fully, injuries from this source will not occur.

Fairly widespread in certain states—for example, Arizona, Colorado, Texas, Kansas, New Mexico, Virginia, Arkansas, Illinois, and North and South Dakota—it is also well known in Europe and South America. In one community not far from Tucson an inspection disclosed that every person born in the vicinity, or who came there during the early years of life, showed mottling. Those who were born or reared elsewhere and who migrated to the locality after the teething age were not bothered.

In other words, the results were identical with those which would have followed had a quantity of sodium fluoride been included in the diet. It is the poisonous action of the chemical that is responsible, due to its presence in drinking water or that employed in cooking. Apparently as little as one part per million is sufficient to induce symptoms. Whenever the trouble appears among children, examination of the water is in order.

There seems to be no remedy other than to seek another and purer supply. Occasionally the dangerous material is found in driven wells—enough to prove disastrous. Far less likely to be contaminated are streams, rivers, lakes, and ponds. Treatment to free the liquid from this noxious product may be more expensive in the long run than to seek a new reservoir.

Curiously enough, teeth thus altered are not more subject to decay than those that are considered normal. This is borne out by a comparison between two cities. In one the fluorine measured 1.8 parts per million, while in the other the quantity was only 0.2 parts per million. Nevertheless, in the latter district the amount of decay was double that of the former.

Some communities will show but a mild form of the malady, where the saturation is quite too low to produce glaring defects. In one Illinois city, for example, only slight damage was observed and then in only one-half of those who use city water continuously. The other half of the population remained unaffected.

Fluorine is a powerful element and it behaves in some respects much like iodine, bromine, and chlorine. The acid [hydrofluoric], however, has the power of dissolving glass. It is this compound that is employed for etching designs upon goblets, etc. There is little excuse for its presence in the household, altho now and then it is resorted to for the destruction of cockroaches.

KIDNEY STONES.

S. M. B. writes: What is the cause of kidney stones?

REPLY.

When the urine is alkaline and becomes too concentrated mineral matter may be deposited. If the condition persists for quite some time the stones increase in size. But sometimes rendering the urine acid will bring about their disappearance. They may develop in the course of a long illness—particularly with a fracture.

DROPPED INTESTINES.

A. R. writes: In a recent physical examination nothing wrong was found except that my intestines are very low. What does that mean?

REPLY.

Your abdominal wall is probably lax and requires strengthening. Better posture is the answer. Exercises are suggested. Do not allow a watermelon abdomen to develop.

SOFT PALATE.

V. M. writes: What is the function of the soft palate?

REPLY.

This structure has something to do with resonance—in other words, the tone of the voice. It is frequently too long, however, and may be clipped or removed entirely without much injury. In appearance, it provides an architectural finish to the roof of the mouth.

DOESN'T AID THE COAL MINERS.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—David E. Lilienthal, head of the TVA, recently wrote an article on the power trust.

I do not see anything in the article about the 20,000 to 30,000 coal miners and railroad men thrown out of jobs by the TVA project or the thousands of acres of farm land ruined or the loss in that vicinity in taxes, but Representative May, Kentucky Democrat, did just that in a radio speech in which he condemned the TVA.

The government ownership and control of power and utilities is a "pet" idea of Franklin D. Roosevelt; it sounds well in political speeches.

The tax paying citizens likely realize that government projects are generally not self-supporting and that deficits may have to be made up in the form of taxes. Most of us would sooner pay a fair rate for the conveniences and efficiency furnished by public utilities than to pay out the difference or more in taxes.

The writer is not interested in or employed by any utility company.

PARALYSIS CAME LATER.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 10.—Our noonday discussion concerned a current article condemning Franklin D. Roosevelt for his action at the time of the first world war, when thru "pull" he secured for himself a safe and comfortable job in the navy department while others did the fighting.

"Why—why," my New Deal friend spluttered indignantly, "that's cowardly for them to say that. How could he fight? He was paralyzed!"

Amazed at this misinformation, I explained that it was not until years after the war that Mr. Roosevelt suffered his paralysis. A. G. O. P. POLIO.

BEMOANS THIRD TERM BUG.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—I am a Roosevelt fan—a New Dealer—and I am certain that F. D. R.'s place in history is secure—but why, O why, did he get the third term bug and spoil it all? To me it seems that he has turned traitor, not only to the founder of democracy but to all the other founding fathers. No effort was made to select some one in the party besides himself to carry out the reforms he has initiated. Being a firm believer in the two term tradition, Mr. Willkie, here I come!

WHAT WASHINGTON SAID.

Lombard, Ill., Oct. 10.—It may not be generally recognized, but Washington not only refused to run for a third term at the close of his own second term, but again at the close of John Adams' administration. In a letter written July 21, 1799, to Gov. Jonathan Trumbull, he said:

"I come now, my dear sir, to pay particular attention to that part of your letter which respects myself [running for a third term]. . . . Wherein would lie the difference between the present gentleman in office and myself? . . . It would be criminal, therefore, in me, [altho it would be the wish of my countrymen and I could be elected] to accept an office under this conviction which another would discharge with more ability; . . . and when I should become a mark for the shafts of envenomed malice and the basest calumny to fire at—when I should be charged not only with irresolution, but with concealed ambition, which waits only an occasion to blaze out—and, in short, with dotage and imbecility."

The above is found in Ford's "Writings of Washington," volume XIII, page 190, and also in "Washington Speaks for Himself," by Lucretia Perry Osborne [Scribners, 1927], page 200.

Thus Washington did not consider himself indispensable, but on the contrary he credited Adams with being more capable than himself; and he infers that the criticism he mentions would be merited—that he could justly be charged with such concealed ambition that it amounted to "dotage and imbecility."

CHARLES F. MCELROY.

"SPIRITUAL VALUE" OF WAR.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins' statement, quoted in THE TRIBUNE, expresses the conviction of many of us. Said Dr. Hutchins:

"Those who regard war or the preparation for it as a splendid spiritual undertaking with elevating moral by-products must be extremely ignorant or extremely bored."

Recently President Roosevelt was shown in a newsreel answering the queries of reporters about conscription. In this interview President Roosevelt said that the purpose of conscription was to "teach us to live side by side, rich and poor," etc.

How is that for "elevating by-products"? R. M.

RARE BIRDS' FEATHERS.

Lombard, Ill., Oct. 10.—Birds are being massacred for millinery—thousands of wild birds slaughtered for the sake of a few feathers for women's hats! It seems impossible in this age of conservation, but the National Association of Audubon Societies has found that feathers of such rare birds as the golden eagle and the whistling swan are decorating hats today. Not only our native birds but many South American and Asiatic birds as well are being slaughtered and their feathers brought into this country illegally.

So, women, think twice before you buy a hat with a feather on it. It is only by refusal to buy these feathers that the traffic in plumage can be stopped. Remember how the American egrets almost became extinct because they were killed by the millions for their plumes. That must not happen again.

ELECTION AND WAR NEWS.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The important event to this country just now is the Presidential election in November—to defeat a "third term."

The headlines in most newspapers draw the public attention to the war abroad. This is what the present administration desires.

Would you make most prominent, until after election, the events in our own country? And may you be blessed in doing so.

NATURALIZATION PAPERS.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—My husband has applied for his papers. He has papers from past employers stating when he was in this country. We have everything from December, 1925, but we need proof of his residence from July 1, 1924. We have written to several companies that he worked for, without success. He entered this country illegally. Is there anything we can do? We were married in 1937. Could he be deported? M. M.

If the husband entered the United States before July 1, 1924, and has not been absent therefrom since that time, he would not be subject to deportation under the facts stated. It is suggested that he communicate directly with this office, giving the file number of his case, in order that he may be appropriately advised.

G. O. P. CANDIDATE TO DEMAND RADIO CENSORSHIP QUIZ

Deletion of Talk Branded Free Speech Curb.

George F. Barrett, Republican nominee for attorney general of Illinois, began yesterday what he said will be a fight to the finish for freedom of speech over the radio.

Barrett was still indignant that part of the text of a speech he made Saturday night over station WBBM was censored by the station and that when he attempted to tell his listeners what had happened he was cut off the air until he returned to the approved section of his manuscript.

"There was nothing for me to do Saturday but to submit, but I intend now to carry the fight just as far as is necessary to win it," he said. "I'm sure it will be won, but I can't say now just what all the steps will be. I may have to appeal to the courts, including the highest in the land, but those in charge may come to their senses before that time."

Writes Letter of Protest.

Barrett's first step consisted of writing a letter to H. Leslie Atlass, vice president of the Columbia Broadcastin system in charge of WBBM. In it he said:

"I have been scheduled to make another address over your station on Oct. 20. I wish, as an American citizen who believes in freedom of speech and the freedom of the press, to incorporate in my address those portions of last Saturday's address which were deleted.

"You probably have noted that the deleted portions were included in newspaper stories Sunday morning. May I ask whether this is an indication that freedom of the press still exists but that freedom of speech does not?"

Federal Probe to Be Sought.

The letter also notified Atlass that Barrett intends to ask the Federal Communications commission to investigate the incident here. Barrett further asked for the identity of the attorney who ordered the censorship, mentioning that the attorney whose name was given him is John B. Moser, a member of the National Lawyers' guild, which Barrett described as "notoriously friendly to the New Deal."

The deletions from Barrett's speech were a sentence criticising the appointment of Elliott Roosevelt as an army captain and a paragraph charging that Democratic workers are seeking to coerce persons on relief.

Barrett left last night for Indianapolis, Ind., where today, at the invitation of Arch N. Bobbitt, Republican state chairman of Indiana, he is to explain to 15 Indiana county chairmen the workings of the Illinois Volunteer Committee To Stop Vote Frauds. Bobbitt wrote that the Barrett system of fighting election crooks may be adopted in those counties where the Paul V. McNutt machine is strong.

STELLE RUSHES LISTS OF BOARDS TO HANDLE DRAFT

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 13 [Special].—A list of members of the 284 local draft boards for Illinois is being completed tonight at a conference of Gov. John Stelle, Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, and Col. E. A. Fitzpatrick, acting assistant director.

After a session of almost six hours, Armstrong announced that the boards for a few counties were still incomplete but it was expected they would be finished tonight.

The complete list of names will be submitted to draft officials in Washington for federal approval.

Police Cars Speed Delivery.

Danville, Ill., Oct. 13 [Special].—Fifteen state police cars were called into service tonight by Gov. Stelle to deliver thousands of selective service registration blanks to county clerks. The forms were printed here, and it had been planned to deliver them Tuesday, but Stelle received orders from Washington, D. C., to send them out a day earlier. All blanks will be in the hands of the clerks at 9 a. m. tomorrow. Chief Walter Williams of the state police and John J. Donoghue, state superintendent of printing, came here to supervise the distribution.

William E. Moore, Noted Editor, Is Critically Ill

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 13 (AP).—William E. Moore, 62, managing editor of the Baltimore Sun, was in a critical condition at Union Memorial hospital tonight, following complications resulting from a fall at his apartment. Dr. Charles W. Maxson, his physician, said coronary thrombosis had developed. Moore is a native of La Grange, Mo. He served as managing editor on the old Chicago Inter-Ocean, and as managing editor of the old New York Tribune. He joined the Sun as assistant managing editor in 1922 and was named managing editor in 1929.

Simpler Life Insurance Policies?

"HINDSIGHT AND FORESIGHT"
a weekly column by
Holgar J. Johnson
President Institute of Life Insurance

JOHNSON

SEVERAL people have sent me editorials from three different newspapers, all inspired by a speech which urged the simplification of insurance policies.

Let me say that the life insurance business is making every effort to do this in the interest of policyholders. Because a policy is necessarily a long document does not mean that it is hard to understand, but most of us hesitate when we see a long document because we don't like to take the trouble to read it.

Practically the whole document is devoted to telling the policy owner about his rights and benefits. These must be clearly and accurately defined for his protection, because the contract may have to be interpreted fifty years hence, after everybody present when it was signed is gone.

Hence, it would be a mistake to try to shorten it at the sacrifice of clarity or completeness. Much of what the policy contains is there because the laws require it, although similar provisions would be included in any event, for they are necessary to make a complete statement of what the policy covers.

Life insurance men find that the discussion about the present form of policies frequently comes from people who have never tried to read them, because they look complicated. I urge most strongly that you take the trouble to read yours. It is possibly the most important contract that you will ever enter into, for life insurance forms the major part of what most people are able to leave.

Even though your agent may have explained the policy carefully when you bought it so that you didn't feel it necessary to read it then, it is a good idea to refresh your understanding of what it contains by reading it now.

If there is anything you don't understand about it, ask your agent. It's part of his job to explain such things to you.

LIBERAL TRADE-IN for your old washer . . . may be enough to cover the small down payment! Long, easy terms.

IF MORE than 150,000 women can enjoy workless washdays, so can you. Why put off buying a Bendix any longer? First cost is no more than that of the better old-style machines. Bendix washes a 25% to 50% larger load of clothes than ordinary washers. Has no dangerous wringer; no agitator to wear and tear clothes. You'll be thrilled with its amazing savings in time, work, money! Start enjoying Bendix NOW. Ask the nearest dealer to demonstrate.

From $124.50
Completely installed to present plumbing.

YOU'LL BUY BENDIX IF YOU COMPARE THESE FACTS

BENDIX	OTHER WASHERS
1 Put dry, soiled clothes in dry cylinder. Flip a switch and Bendix fills with water automatically.	Scour set tubs. Clean machine and wringer rolls (or spinner basket) before using. Shove machine into position beside set tubs. Test hot water and stir up suds by hand. Lift heavy, hot, wet clothes from machine and feed through wringer into rinse water . . . or lift clothes back and forth from machine to spinner basket to rinse water! Rinse by hand . . . a tedious ordeal of bending, lifting, straining. Most women rinse clothes only twice—more than that is too much work. Empty and clean rinse tubs. Empty and clean washer. Remove, clean and replace agitator. Clean wringer rolls or spinner basket. Push washer away from set tubs. Mop floor.
2 Add soap. Bendix washes, rinses three times, whirls clothes damp-dry, cleans itself and shuts off—all automatically.
3 Take out clean, damp-dry clothes . . . your washing's done. Hands haven't even been in water!

Knitted Dress Is Back in High Fashion Favor

BY REA SEEGER.

Back with a renewed vigor and casual smartness come the knitted dresses, ensembles, and clever two piece suits. Greatly improved in outline, they are enjoying a decided popularity as the correct clothes for fall and winter. Not only are they the answer to the problem of what to pack when traveling, they are splendid finds for sportswomen as well as spectators.

What makes these new knits so successful is the clever way they are made. Knitted dresses no longer resemble a shapeless sack of sweater stitches going round and round in a dull tubular fashion.

One piece dresses fit with the same clinging suavity that marks dresses of thin wool and crêpe. Proof of this . . . you will view them hung on a hanger just like any other dress! Seams do not sag, nor do the back outlines stretch. Textures are importantly different. Nubby effects give that swanky handmade look. Interesting ribbed designs make them appear like handsome chenille woolens without too much nap. And color contrasts of dark backgrounds crossed with wide squares of strong color with decorative buttons make the dresses and suits eye catching examples of smart fashions.

One piece dresses are particularly effective with such cross plaid designs. The long sleeves and simple straight outline make them suitable to wear under tweed coats or sports coats of fur and with the long swinging capes of fur or thick wool.

Slim, distinctive two piece knitted suits come in stunning colors, forest green, dark beige, and so on. The buttons on the trim fitted jacket are usually of fanciful shape of shiny gold metal. Tailored details are as impeccable as those of a man tailored wool cloth suit. The suit and outer coat combines rate tops in knitted swank. If you crave knitted clothes and appreciate something new and different see these late arrivals!

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 13.—Sunday: To the Cole brothers' circus, and it's the first time in more than twenty years that we've seen a circus under canvas. It was always in Madison Square Garden in New York, and in those one-ring buildings in Paris. The Cole outfit is a road veteran, with a fantastically tattered and patched old tent, quite a few acts and a lot of padding between. It has all the standard numbers except a wild animal trainer. And a remarkable fellow who walks up a tightrope to the top of a center pole, then slides down backward. And an act with the wonderful name of the Loyal Rependskys. . . . Dinner at the Groucho Marxes', and Groucho tells of one of his earliest show dates, in Cripple Creek, Colo., in 1905, and how he drove a laundry wagon between Cripple Creek and Victor, another mining camp, when the show went broke.

Monday: A visitor is Detective Ed Slattery from a New York headquarters squad, who is holidaying with Mrs. Slattery. They drove thru snow in Wyoming and snow sounds odd because a heat wave is in the making here. . . . Carole Lombard sends a lock of her hair, by request. It's not for a sentimental collection, however — but for George Poindexter to make three trout flies with—one for Miss L., one for Mr. Gable and one for himself.

Tuesday: To Metro to chat with Robert Z. Leonard about the old days when Fanny Ward was the richest actress and the social leader. She was a little ashamed then of being older than she looked, but later began capitalizing on her age. . . . To an afternoon showing of "They Knew What They Wanted," which is all right and full of good performances. . . . To an evening preview of Myrna Loy's "Third Finger, Left Hand," which is thin, but sometimes funny—especially when the dainty Miss Loy burlesques a Brooklyn moll.

Wednesday: Selmer Fougner sends a fine new gadget, a bar guide, which is a kind of strip map on rollers containing cocktail recipes. At luncheon I see Raymond Griffith, who is around town again after his departure from Fox several weeks ago; Eddie Moran, who is whipping up a story for Metro; Morton Downey, who is lunching with his wife, Barbara of the Bennett clan, who recently was sprung from the hospital and is okay, thanks; and the press agent, lawyer, and doctor of Orson Welles, who are having the noontide off because Orson is home with a cold. . . . Then to a projection room to see the Claudette Colbert-Ray Milland "Arise, My Love"—and in it the stars drink a cocktail Baron Fougner didn't list. A little green mint in the bottom of the glass, then champagne. . . . Dinner at Chasen's, and a gabfest with Ed McNamara, George Murphy, and the Humphrey Bogarts. The Bogarts, just back from a week on a rented schooner, say it's the best vacation they ever had. . . . O, yes, in the Colbert film, Cliff Nazzaro, playing a news fotog, does a routine of double-talk that is one of the season's highlights.

Thursday: All morning belaboring the noiseless portable, and then to an afternoon preview of "The Thief of Bagdad," in what they always call Glorious Technicolor. It is a beautiful and fantastic Arabian Nights job—but Alexander Korda can't fool me. The picture pretends that the Magic Carpet belongs to Sabu—but it really belongs to Korda and his technical wizards. . . . In the evening to Dorothy Lamour's "Moon Over Burma," which is all hoke and 32 millimeters wide. Big moment is when Robert Preston and Preston Foster risk their possibly valuable lives dynamiting a log jam. The instant of the explosion, an earthquake hits Westwood village.

Friday: A day of shopping and rest, and cocktails for a crew including Mary Martin, Dick Halliday, E. McNamara, Gregory La Cava [who says he'll make a picture at Universal the first of the year, possibly with Irene Dunne], the Artie Auerbachs, Lee Patrick, and the Nunnally Johnsons [he says he's well into the screen version of "Tobacco Road"] . . . At 1 a. m. to deliver Mac to Chasen's, and there's Jimmy Durante, who has had two dinners of beef. His divorce-bound wife has taken over the house and he's at a hotel—and burned at the charges that he beat her.

Saturday: To check a whisper that Darryl Zanuck quit yesterday and might go to Paramount, and the Fox studio denies it. Says they've been trying for three weeks to kill the story because Mr. Z. isn't leaving.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

If your hobby is collecting characterizations for a memory scrapbook, "They Knew What They Wanted" will be what YOU want. For it has several first-class ones on display. But—if you yearn to behold movies that hold your attention taut from opening to final scene why—I don't know. I just—don't—know. . . .

The piece is an adaptation of the Sidney Howard stage play in which—way back in 1924—Richard Bennett had such a tall time. [Pauline Lord played opposite.] It sings of a lovable, childlike Italian fruit grower, who sees a skinny waitress in a San Francisco café—and knows right away what he wants.

He wants her—Amy! And children. And a warm and tumultuous family life. . . . So—

He rushes back to the ranch he'd so recently thought held all he wanted—and makes his young, good-looking, morally unscrupulous ranch boss write Amy a letter—Tony not knowing how—telling her how he has seen her and how he likes her. And when the girl replies—also thru the auspices of a friend, he replies with more vigorous assertions. . . . Finally he has his picture taken to send her—with his proposal that she come out and marry him. . . . BUT, fearful that the sight of him might work agin his plans, he sneaks in Joe's likeness instead, unknown to Joe.

Amy is flabbergasted but willing and eager. SHE wants a home and security. She's tired of being batted around the world. . . . And, surely, here's a fine looking chap offering her what she wants. . . . So, thinking that Joe is her prospective bridegroom, she arrives on the scene. And discovers the truth, but not before her lips and Joe's have met, and ungovernable emotions been unleashed.

Tony gives a great fiesta, and while showing off for his Amy, falls off a roof and breaks both his legs. . . . The wedding must be postponed. . . . Joe, who loves Tony as much as he's capable of loving anybody, wants to leave—but Tony will have none of it. WHAT, Joe leave Tony when Tony is seek? Naw-a-aw!

So—Joe stays and the devil makes hey hey. . . .

Mr. Laughton is lovable, laughable, appealing and absolutely believable as Tony. I imagine he lived the part as is his wont to do, for a long, long time—and what a care he must have been to his friends during that period!

William Gargan is a reprehensible and attractive Joe. Harry Carey—he hasn't changed a bit in years!—gives one of his de luxe performances as the country doctor. . . . Carole Lombard is sincere, yes, and able as Amy—but the part didn't seem to me to be quite down her alley. . . . And I wish she'd quit hollowing her face. I like an interesting bit of gauntness but she's got her cheeks to where they appear to meet inside and I get uncomfortable wondering how the girl manages to swallow. . . . Frank Fay—No. Too actorish.

The piece is skilfully staged and directed. WHY didn't it hold my interest? YOU tell ME. . . .

See you tomorrow.

PRINCESS ROSTISLAV'S wearing the $1,000,000 Jonker diamond will be a feature of the St. Luke's fashion show tomorrow. Not much of her gown shows in this picture, but it is a black velvet one which costs $49. Thus the princess, whose husband is a member of the Romanov family that ruled Russia before the revolution, will represent royalty and its traditional wealth and the average American woman with a modest income, which the princess is now, for she is part owner of a dress shop on the near north side.

Two Singers Make Chicago Debuts in "Il Trovatore"

BY EDWARD BARRY.

At the Auditorium theater this week-end the San Carlo Opera company presented two Verdi works—"Il Trovatore" Saturday evening and "Rigoletto" last night.

In the former, two singers were heard who had not made previous Chicago appearances with this company. Mobley Lushanya, an American Indian soprano, sang Leonora. Marie Powers, also an American but not an Indian, was the Azucena.

Miss Lushanya showed taste and refinement and a nice intuitive grasp of the methods by which lyrical song can be personalized and made eloquent. Often an apt change of pace or a well selected color effect toward the end of a phrase would send that phrase across the footlights with quite an expressive ping.

In some of Leonora's bigger moments, however, Miss Lushanya did not command the vocal power nor the histrionic and musical confidence necessary to make her points. She would overreach herself vocally, or would make the conductor pull her along instead of seeming imperiously to lead the way.

Miss Powers' passionate, confident, candid singing of the music allotted to Azucena more than made up for a certain unfinished quality in her vocalism. In fact, it would be a brave man who would say—on the basis of this one hearing of the new singer—whether this vocal roughness is a part of her characterization of Azucena or a quality inherent in the singer.

A share of Saturday night's applause went to Aroldo Lindi for his supercharged enactment of Manrico and to Mostyn Thomas for his performance of that loveliest of early Verdi melodies—the Count di Luna's second act aria.

Last evening's "Rigoletto" brought to the stage the powerful Bulgarian baritone, Ivan Petroff [Rigoletto], Wisconsin's enchanting Lucille Meusel [Gilda], and the stylistically splendid American tenor, Rolf Gerard [Mantua]. A high point of the evening was the way Miss Meusel handled the conclusion of the "Caro Nome." It showed a wonderful combination of modesty and efficiency and musical sense.

By the way, the company's new singer of bit parts—Flora Shennon—has been doing some nice, sensitive things, both vocal and histrionic, over the week-end. She was the Giovanna last evening.

Miss Helen Dick's Engagement to Andrew W. Cook Announced

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS HELEN DICK is engaged to be married to Andrew Werk Cook. Announcement of the betrothal was made by Miss Dick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blake Dick Jr., at a cocktail party in their Lake Forest home yesterday. Mr. Cook, a son of Andrew E. Cook of Cincinnati, O., and Beverly Hills, Cal., and the late Mrs. Cook, is in business in Chicago.

Miss Dick is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Aldrich and of Mrs. Albert Blake Dick. She was introduced to society at an elaborate ball in the Blackstone hotel last December. Miss Dick attended Miss Hall's school at Pittsfield, Mass., and Finch Junior college in New York City.

Mr. Cook attended Middlesex school and was graduated in 1934 from Harvard university, where he was a member of the Fly, Iroquois, and Hasty Pudding clubs.

Junior League Members to Go to School Today.

No matter how often one reads about art exhibits, teas, benefit dances and other parties sponsored by the Chicago Junior league, the real purpose of the organization remains what it was at the time of its incorporation 28 years ago: "To interest the young women of Chicago in the industrial and social problems of the city, to help them study conditions, and find their own work." This morning about 40 young women who are fortunate in having leisure time to make useful will start attending classes in the league headquarters to learn the ins and outs of social, economic, educational, civic, and cultural conditions of their community.

From 9:30 until 12:30 daily thru Oct. 25 the group will meet for classwork and for field trips to various institutions. When the students have completed the course they will use their knowledge in volunteer service. The course is being conducted by Miss Wilmer Shields, who received her master's degree at Bryn Mawr before becoming secretary of the New Orleans Council of Social Agencies, a job she held for nine years. She joined the professional staff of the Association of Junior Leagues of America last year. A local speaker will be heard at each class.

Some Young Women Postpone Classwork

Some of the young women who were invited to take the provisional course this fall are postponing their classwork until next year for one reason or another. Mrs. Anthony Mitchell Ryerson, who was Miss Margaret Hutchins until last Saturday, for the reason that she and her bridegroom are spending a month on Treasure Island, off Nassau. Mrs. Peter Fortune and Mrs. Otto Madlener are preoccupied with new babies. Miss Grace Shumway is too busy with classes at the University of Chicago, to which she transferred from Vassar this fall. Mrs. John W. Kearns also is postponing her work.

SYNOPSIS.

Rowan Wilde, an American girl, goes to the isolated cottage of Hazel Fordyce, in England, to do some studying. Arriving at night she is frightened by footsteps. Investigating, she finds a dead man in a closet. As she rushes from the house she runs into 32 year old Stephen Smedley, who she later learns is a publisher who has come to the country for a rest and lives in an old chapel near her cottage. Rowan tells Stephen her story, and he goes off to get his car. When he fails to return, Rowan starts out searching for him and stumbles upon him prostrate. Helping him into the house, he collapses on the sofa. Rowan leaves him and goes to her bedroom for a nap, but is awakened by him entering her door, holding a butcher knife. A sharp command from her makes him drop the knife and retreat. Mrs. Faithful, the housekeeper, fails to show up the next morning but has sent Mrs. Yallee, mother of Egbert, the caretaker, to get Rowan's breakfast. Stephen seems to remember nothing of the knife incident and when he and Rowan look for the body it has disappeared. Rowan has discovered Stephen's brief case and unbeknown to him, hides it with her bloody skirt just as the Rev. Boggs and Lord Romrytch, Rowan's neighbors, arrive searching for the vicar's brother, Bertram, who they say was allowed to study in the Fordyce cottage. Stephen admits to Rowan that the dead man was Bertram Boggs, who was trying to get Stephen interested in publishing a book he had written. He advises her not to mention finding the body. Lord Romrytch invites Rowan, the vicar and Stephen to lunch and they are forced to listen to Forbes, Romrytch's secretary, report on his fruitless efforts to locate Bertram. Rowan learns that Bertram had a bad reputation and that he had assaulted the vicar's maid, who was engaged to Egbert, the Fordyce gardener. Romrytch tells her that Bertram forged an introduction to him, and hints that he was insane, claiming to know Hitler, Mussolini and a lot of prominent persons. Rowan invites Stephen for dinner, planning to return his brief case. When she gets home she opens a closet door and the corpse falls out. She faints and when she comes to Stephen is standing over her and the corpse has again disappeared. This time they notify the police and Egbert is suspected.

INSTALMENT XXV.

MYSTERIOUS TYPER.

"We'll begin now, Miss Wilde," said Maj. Godstone. "You arrived here when?"

"Late Monday afternoon," recited Rowan. "Bank Holiday."

"Yesterday, in fact."

Only yesterday! It was true. The tufted brows had risen, but Maj. Godstone merely said that it was a little out of the usual to seek the country at the close of a holiday instead of at the beginning.

"So it seems." Rowan laughed. "Now if it had been the Fourth of July I mightn't have broken the rules."

"Fourth—? O, to be sure, your Independence day. Not onto our national customs, are you? No matter, you got here, settled in and found nothing out of the way."

"Fortunately for me," said Rowan, glancing at Stephen, "I ran into Mr. Smedley almost at once."

"Some one you knew, eh? So you invited him to dine this evening and he turned up to find you knocked out by a corpse. Getting all this on paper, are you, sergeant?"

"If you don't mind, sir," interpolated the inspector with a respectful cough, "we'd do well to have it all in order."

"Right, Moody, I'm always too damned informal. Suppose you ask the questions? I'll sit back."

The chief constable did so, on the bed, and to Rowan's inward trepidation the businesslike inspector took over. She need not have feared. The grindingly accurate Inspector Moody proved easy handling, her slight wanness making its appeal even in this quarter.

"Some one walking about!" The officers' eyes exchanged looks. "Stopped suddenly when you turned the wrong switch. You heard a door close. Then what did you do?"

"Why, I tried to find what door it was, of course. From outside. I saw the old part of the house which I'd missed before, but its door was locked. I looked in at the windows. It was too dim to make out much, but it seemed pretty certain no one was in the room."

She paused. The sergeant, squatting on his heels, nibbled his pencil expectantly.

"Old part!" The inspector frowned. "We'll look into that. Hadn't you spotted the connecting door?"

"You'll see why I didn't. It's hidden behind paneling. Well! And then—"

All eyes but Stephen's were fixed on Rowan's face, yet only two persons could, she knew, feel the frightful tautness of the moment—Stephen and herself.

"Quite," prompted the inspector. "The room looked all right, only you saw no means of making an inside examination. So?——"

"I started to come in again."

"And stopped outside, did you? Why was that?"

"Because," said Rowan, never more cool, "I noticed some farmyard gates at the back, and coming towards them from across the meadows a man who seemed incredibly familiar. I thought I must be mistaken, but I wasn't. It was Mr. Smedley. He was staying down here, too. He'd been for a tramp."

It was over now, all of it, the men gone from her room. The cretonne frock lay over a chair, and she in her bed, ready for sleep; only sleep wouldn't come.

Yes, tho she had put her fiction across, winning hands down; tho Mrs. Yallee was in the adjacent bedroom and Constable Potter engaged in a patrol outside, she kept going over her ordeal, her mind working a treadmill it couldn't escape. There was nothing further to worry about. Maj. Godstone and the inspector had both assured her of that, and they were right, so long as she stuck to her version and didn't try to embroider it. It had been most ridiculously simple. She reviewed it yet again to appreciate just how simple it had been.

This morning she had visited the Tudor part, thanks to the vicar and Lord Romrytch. The latter had asked her to lunch, and then had invited Mr. Smedley as well. All of which had made a most favorable impression. Naturally she had heard about the missing Mr. Boggs and his use of the room. Naturally when the malodorous lump fell on her gut of the cupboard she had guessed instantly what it was. And then, the while she chatted with Maj. Godstone and Stephen accepted a cigaret from the chief constable's case, the three officers had conducted a thoro combing of house and grounds. With, of course, no result.

Rowan had then been asked if she wouldn't prefer some other companion than the mother of a probable suspect, but this had brought the apparently unanswerable question. What other companion? Dr. Roach had vouched for the fact that Mrs. Faithful was laid low with lumbago. Constable Potter knew of no available person barring a woman whose young family were all down with the measles.

The chief constable had made a wry face. "See here, Miss Wilde, how about coming home with me? That is, if you're the least nervous."

"But I'm not, major! Why should I be, now?"

"Stout girl! You're one of the right sort, I can see. Well, Potter'll be sticking around. I would say do as you like tomorrow, only I imagine when there's an inquest you'll be wanted. Am I right, inspector?"

"She will, major," declared the inspector, looking in. "And Mr. Smedley as well."

There had been something a little ominous in that, also in the way the sergeant had snapped a rubber band around his notebook; but it was probably imagination. She had seen Stephen's eyes when he muttered good night. She hoped they looked grateful. She wasn't quite sure.

"He must be relieved. Why, he must be shouting with joy! I've lied him out of it completely, done everything I could do, except hand him his brief case."

About which, obviously, she had said not a word.

Now the wretched secret had popped back into her mind, her last remnant of calm was torn to rags and tatters. Her watch told her it was long past one. She got up, swallowed the doctor's tablets, and was just slipping back into bed when she heard the queer, tapping sound.

At first she could not think what it was. It came from downstairs, she thought, from the drawing room—intermittent, brisk spurts of speed, hesitation with only one or two taps, then a pause. A small noise, somehow furtive. She wouldn't have heard it at all if the house and surroundings had been less silent. Very softly she opened her door and poised by the crack listening.

She heard a faint rasp, a barely perceptible rattle of paper. The tapping, stilled for a moment, started again.

Sickness washed over her. She knew now that what she heard was her typewriter.

Swiftly she closed her door, not before a new fact had riveted her notice. The door of the front corner room—the door she had heard Sarah Yallee shut more than an hour ago—stood ajar. Just visible in the moonlight was an untouched bed.

Her first thought was that Egbert's mother, also wide awake, had heard the typewriter and gone down to investigate it. Instantly she vetoed it, for the small entrance hall below was in total darkness and no hum of voices impinged on her ear—not even a faint rustle or stir. Nothing moved in the house except this broken tapping of keys behind a closed door.

Doris Advises Against This Altar March

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: I met a man a year ago who is 30 years older than I am. He is 54, I am 24. My parents object to my seeing him because he is so much older.

"When I see him, which is almost every evening after work, I dare not let my parents know about it. He says he loves me and wants to marry me. I know there have been many women in his life, and he has lied to me on many occasions.

"I am tired of working, and as he has enough money to support me better than I have been accustomed to, I sometimes feel I should think of my future and security. I have an even disposition and am not jealous. I feel we could get along all right.

"Boys my age have no finesse, no money, and can never take a girl to nice places like an older man can. I want to travel and go to the best places, and this man can give me all of that.—J."

If you marry this man, in five or 10 years you may regret your decision. Even should you be in love with him, and not be considering the "advantages" he could give you, the vast difference in your ages augurs for much unhappiness.

Should this man suddenly become ill and require constant care and devotion, would you like that? Should he lose all of his money and you had to go to work again, would you like that? Would you really like to give up the fun of going out dancing with a good looking chap your own age, or marrying for real love and sharing your joy in making a home, having children, and growing up together, perhaps attaining the pleasures this older man is offering you?

Pianist Horowitz Cancels a Concert; Doctors Tell Why

Newark, N. J., Oct. 13 (AP).—Vladimir Horowitz, celebrated pianist, has been forced to cancel a Newark concert date for Nov. 13. The sponsors released the following explanation from his three consulting physicians:

"We have under our care Mr. Vladimir Horowitz, who is convalescing from a traumatic tenosynovitis of the flexor digitorum sublimis and profundis muscle at the metacarpophalangeal joint. He is constantly improving, but it is our opinion that he needs further medical management before he can resume practicing and playing in concerts. We do not feel that this can be accomplished before Jan. 15, 1941."

Horowitz has a badly injured finger.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1940: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The macaroni or spaghetti casserole appeals to the school youngster as a hot, filling lunch on a cool autumn day, and to his mother because it's such an easy meal to prepare.

Macaroni with cheese, and spaghetti with tomato sauce, are the most popular of these dishes, but these are changes which will be pleasing to a hungry family, we're sure.

Macaroni and Vegetable Meal.

[Serves six]

½ pound macaroni
½ cup diced carrots
½ cup diced turnips
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup diced celery
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 hard cooked eggs
1 cup grated cheese

Cook macaroni in rapidly boiling, salted water until tender, and drain. Combine with vegetables which have been cooked until tender in salted water. Blend butter and flour over low heat, add milk gradually, and stir to make a smooth white sauce. Season with salt and pepper, and add chopped eggs. Pour sauce over combined macaroni and vegetables in a greased casserole, and cover with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Leftover vegetables or canned ones may be used in this recipe in any combination one likes.

Spaghetti with Onions and Cheese.

[Serves five]

½ pound spaghetti
½ cup minced chives or green onions
1 cup American or Parmesan cheese, grated
¼ cup butter
Salt, pepper

Cook spaghetti in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain and add chives or onions, tops included, cheese, butter, and a sprinkling of salt and pepper [very little salt if the cooking water was well salted]. Stir constantly over low heat until well blended, and serve at once.

Macaroni Royal.

[Serves three]

½ pound macaroni
2 slices bacon, cut in pieces
½ cup diced sharp cheese
½ onion, minced
½ can concentrated tomato soup, diluted with ½ can water

Cook macaroni until tender in boiling, salted water. Cook bacon until crisp. Place macaroni in greased baking dish in layers with bacon, cheese, and onion sprinkled over each. Pour diluted soup over the dish and bake at 350 degrees for half an hour.

Oct. 14, 1940.

Universal day—Keep your mind on all the "little things" that have to be done.

Favorable days—If you were born on the 5th, 14th, or 23d, then the five days as given in your personal chart for the year will be the best days to seek promotion of ideas, entertainment, fun, and romance. Those with a "five" birth date usually find that this is their lucky number, turning up where least expected and usually associated with the days and events which are exciting and unpredictable. This is the number of chance and enterprise. It should prove favorable any year.

Year ahead—You can begin to come out now from behind the scenes and look forward to brighter and more social year.

That "Two-Piece Look"

WOMAN'S AND MISS' COSTUME.

The "two-piece look" is a fashion favorite this season, even in one-piece dresses! However, the practical thing is really to have the two pieces of a costume, to make further uses possible. Today's pattern furnishes a distinctly smart two piece outfit with long torso, slim lines and a dressmaker appearance. Make it of either silk or sheer woolen.

The low turban keeps this frock effective company. It is made with pattern No. 3425, available for 10 cents extra, and in one adaptable headsize only.

Style No. 2558 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16 and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material for long sleeved dress of one fabric; 2¼ yards for three-quarter sleeve blouse and 1⅞ yards for skirt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Anonymous Author.

Vincent Starrett, whose Books Alive is just out, recently picked up among some old books in a shop a slim little volume that bore the bookplate of Eugene Field. It also bore Field's name on the flyleaf and the date 1892. Inside it was inscribed Miss Whitehead with compliments of the author and below that was a quotation: And what is writ is writ. Would it were better.

The book, which was titled Lloyd Lee—a Story of Yale, had a prefatory note stating that it was printed privately and that it had been written in pencil "between the duties and pleasures of seven weeks of college life." Mr. Starrett, curious as to the authorship of the little book with Eugene Field's bookplate in it, wrote to the Yale university library to find out, if possible, the identity of the author and of the publisher. He received an answer. The book was written by the late Edward Tyler Blair of Chicago, Yale '79, while he was an undergraduate at the college, and was published in New Haven Dec. 5, 1878. It may be news to his children that Mr. Blair's name belongs on the long list of Chicago authors.

Mr. Starrett Talks.

Whether Mr. Blair's anonymous book is a good one we don't know. Anyway, since he published it anonymously, he never would have felt it necessary to buy up copies had he not been pleased with it in later life. Kipling bought up his early poems and destroyed them. Mencken also bought up his early work and burned it. Vincent Starrett included these bits in some lively and scholarly gossip about books and authors before a book buying audience Saturday afternoon, to whom he was introduced by Ben Abramson as "a bookman in the true sense—a man who lives with books and brings books to life." One of Mr. Starrett's comments: "It is possible that the jails of history have produced as many masterpieces as colleges." And he named the great works that have been written behind bars.

"What is important is reading the books you like," said Mr. Starrett. "I don't believe there are any hundred best books, or even 1,000 best books. There might be 5,000 best books—I don't know."

Author's Guest Book.

Speaking of books, A. W. S. Rosenbach, the Philadelphia book collector signed his name in a Michigan avenue bookstore guest book. "To Hell with Chicago" he wrote, for reasons of his own probably. The next person to sign was Bessie L. Pierce, the second volume of whose highly praised history of Chicago is just out.

News of Capt. Knight and Ramshaw.

Admirers of C. W. R. Knight, British explorer and ornithologist, and Ramshaw, the golden eagle that accompanies him to lecture platforms and teas, will be pleased to learn that both have arrived safely to New York after having been torpedoed on the Volendam. A telegram to Chicago friends from Capt. Knight gives news of their arrival. "Isn't it miraculous that Ramshaw was saved," wired Capt. Knight. The picture of Capt. Knight and his bird wrecked brings to a frivolous mind the story of the magician and his parrot. Remember? The magician was entertaining the passengers on an ocean liner after dinner one night when the boat was torpedoed. The parrot, finding himself perched on a bit of floating wreckage with no sign of boat or passengers, murmured, "That was a hell of a trick." Wonder what Ramshaw thought.

I Will Club to Give Party.

The first philanthropic party of the I Will club this season will be held tomorrow at Mrs. George Beers' home, 208 South Hamlin avenue.

Some of these young women will do volunteer service later in the season, however.

On Wednesday the provisionals will pay a visit to the league's Children's Theater workshop, where the "tigers" in the play "Black Sambo and the Tigers" will put on a special fight. The play opens next Saturday at the Winnetka Community house. Mrs. John A. Kovas is entertaining the cast at luncheon after the two morning performances. Mrs. Theodore Scudder is entertaining after the dress rehearsal on Friday. Tickets may be obtained at the community house or at the league clubrooms in the Drake hotel.

Service Club Revue Rehearsals Start Today

The young women the Service club invites to take part in its annual revue each fall definitely are out for the fun of it. They mostly are debutantes of the season, and during the rehearsal period many friendships are cemented over bridge tables while waiting for chorus calls. Those who become members of the club take on more serious responsibilities.

Rehearsals start today at the Webster hotel. The revue will be given on Nov. 9 at the Auditorium theater. The ticket office, in the Ambassador East [telephone Superior 8797 and 8798], is open daily from 9 until 8 o'clock, in charge of Miss Elizabeth Stenson and Miss Virginia Skinner.

Cenacle Chapel Guild Card Party to Be Nov. 16

One of the largest and most successful fall benefit card parties is the one sponsored annually by members of the Cenacle Chapel guild. This year's party, of which Mrs. Hempstead Washburne is chairman, will be held at 2 o'clock on Nov. 16 at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Herbert McLaughlin, Mrs. Byron V. Kanaley, and Mrs. Bolton Sullivan are some of Mrs. Washburne's committee members.

Altho the date of the christening of Elizabth Langdon, 10 weeks old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Langdon of Goethe street, has not yet been set, her aunt and godmother, Mrs. James K. Elsaman, arrived yesterday with Mr. Elsaman from their home in Gladwyne, Pa., to pay a second visit to their little niece. The Elsamans were here in early August on their way home from a flight over South America. When they came this time, they were accompanied by the baby's grandmother, Mrs. Laura M. Driscoll of Reading, Pa., who plans to spend about 10 days here.

Horner-Konold Wedding Invitations Mailed.

Invitations were put into the mail Saturday for the marriage on Nov. 2 of Miss Helen Konold and Abram Baynton Horner Jr. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock in the St. James Episcopal church in South Bend, Ind. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Harold Konold, will give a reception at the Bronzewood room of the Hotel LaSalle.

Miss Konold, who was graduated from Ferry Hall and attended Indiana university, is a great-great-great-granddaughter of Stanley Hall Fleetwood, who came to Chicago in 1838 from Baltimore. Her great-great-grandfather, the Rev. Benjamin F. Fleetwood, was rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church. His son, the Rt. Rev. William Webster Fleetwood of Beverly Hills, Cal., will officiate at his great-niece's wedding.

Mr. Horner is a graduate of Culver Military academy and of Northwestern university.

Mrs. John S. Coonley is arriving early this week from her home in Honolulu, T. H., to visit her brother and sister-in-law, the Thomas I. Underwoods. She will be joined about Nov. 1. by Mr. Coonley, whose business will take them east until some time next year.

Infant Welfare Center to Stock Its Thrift Shop.

Members of the Beverly Hills Center of the Infant Welfare society will have two busy days this week organizing and conducting a campaign to raise stock for their Thrift shop at 10821 South Michigan avenue. Today Mrs. Frank Hays is opening her home at 10016 Longwood drive for a dessert-bridge at which routes will be mapped out for a house-to-house canvass to be made. Tomorrow, when the members will leave bags for donations of clothing and housewares at the homes of Beverly Hills residents.

Mrs. Lewis Barker, president of the center, will give a luncheon for the 50 members of her organization after the morning canvass. Some old movies of early members and of the first small thrift shop will be shown after luncheon. The center has been doing so well with the shop that it is giving up all other large benefits this year to see if its quota of $5,100 for the Infant Welfare society can't be raised entirely out of the shop's proceeds.

Crocheted Doll Ensemble

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

There is hardly one of us who has outgrown her childhood love of dressing dolls and making doll clothes. The crocheted ensemble consisting of knickers, skirt, blouse, coat, and beret is destined to delight the hearts of young and old. One could hardly find an outfit more suitable to give to a child for her favorite doll than this one crocheted of three ply pink saxony.

For instructions in crocheting the doll's outfit, No. X-97, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

LAST MONDAY'S QUESTIONS.

Question 9. North-South vulnerable. The bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	1 spade	Pass	?

You are South and hold:
♠ Q 5 4 ♥ 6 2 ♦ A K 10 5 ♣ K J 9 4
What call do you make?

Answer: Three spades. You have a strong hand and your spade support is adequate for the jump raise of a vulnerable overcall. Three trumps are not enough for the jump raise of an original bid, but a vulnerable overcall, even at the one level, announces at least five winners and is almost always based on a five card or longer trump suit. [If you bid two spades, two diamonds, or two clubs take 30 points demerit; three diamonds or three clubs, 20 points; one or two no trump, 40 points; four spades, 15 points; pass, 60 points.]

Question 10. Neither side vulnerable. The bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
1 no trump	Pass	?

You are South and hold:
♠ Q 9 7 5 3 ♥ 10 6 4 ♦ 10 3 ♣ 9 7 5
What call do you make?

Answer: Pass. Without as much as one-half an honor trick in your hand, and with comparatively balanced distribution, there is no logic in increasing the contract. [If you bid two spades take 15 points demerit; any other call, 40 points demerit.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 16. North-South vulnerable. The bidding proceeds:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	1 spade	?

You are South and hold:
♠ K J 5 ♥ Q 7 4 ♦ K 8 3 ♣ K 9 4 2
What call do you make?

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass[1]
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	5 diam.[2]
Pass[3]	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

[1] East tries a far-fetched trap pass against the no trump bid, hoping that some number of no trump will be the final contract. A very remote possibility, considering his own freak distribution.

[2] East's trap has turned into a boomerang. Having lost the chance to bid at a low level he now makes a "stab" to save game.

[3] Too many players would bid five spades at this point. The pass is a model of proper bidding tactics and technique. South knows that North will realize he is not passing in fear. His previous strong bidding speaks for itself. Therefore this must be a forcing pass, to allow North to choose between a double and a five spade bid.

It is interesting to note that, on good defense, South could not have made five spades. With a diamond opening and a diamond return, South would have had to lose a trump trick, in addition to the club ace and the first diamond trick.

The five diamond contract met a horrible fate. East was unable to win a single trick in the dummy and had to be content with one club and five trump tricks.

The 900 point penalty was a fitting reward for South's shrewd pass.

Pre-School Age Child Requires Entertainment

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There are many little children who feel utterly lost when school opens and their older brothers and sisters are away from them virtually all day. This is especially true if the small boy or girl depends upon the brothers or sisters' companionship exclusively.

Many little children who have older brothers and sisters love the idea of going to school. If the neighborhood in which the child has no school provision for young children, the mother might find a way to satisfy her youngster by playing a "school game." Children this age have such vivid imaginations that they lend themselves to almost any "make-believe." I know two mothers who did this very successfully.

For instance, Angelina's mother might get her ready in the morning just as if she were going to school; fix her up a little kit of book, pencil, and so forth; and even let her go out and come in again. At her entrance, mother could now be the teacher and greet her as if she were entering the classroom. A small table and chair could be arranged, a blackboard supplied, or anything else that would appeal to a child as a school "set-up." Then lessons might begin.

If Angelina's mother wanted to go into this wholeheartedly, she could visit a classroom of children this age in some school and "get ideas," or with her own ingenuity, and suggestions from the older children, she might devise a daily plan of work and play for several morning hours.

This will perhaps add to the child's interest in life and so to her appetite, if it has been affected. Her day should be scheduled for more active outdoor hours and more sleep, with either one or two daily rest periods.

Take Plenty of Time for Selecting Hat

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Probably no other item in a woman's wardrobe provides her with the feeling that she's "passing fair" as does a becoming hat. Or, more the opposite viewpoint, nothing, it seems to us, can make a woman feel so beaten as a hat in which she sees her worst points emphasized.

Because of the recent vagaries of hat designers, and certain women under their creations, we women have come to believe that finding a becoming hat is a matter of luck.

"But," argues one of the foremost hat designers, "If it's luck you depend upon, you'd better throw away your fourleaf clover and toss your rabbit's foot to the winds.

"Women's hats," she says, "have long been more laughed at than admired. The reason is not the hat itself, but the way it looks upon the particular person who wears it. To look alluring, charming, soignée your hat must not only be good looking in itself, it must be flattering and becoming to YOU."

You arrive at the flattering or becoming, or both, in a hat purchase first by taking plenty of time. Don't limit yourself to three hours or three days, even, urges our authority. Take your hat hunting in periods of two hours a day, and you will emerge with a much more distinctive and complimentary choice. Too often, in looking for a hat, you get the panicky, desperate feeling that nothing looks well on you and you fall on the first hat which is a little better than the others, only to find, on arrival home, that it is disappointing.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

Most women would rather sit down to a nice dish of poison than pluck their eyebrows, especially if they're the kind who keep putting off the evil day and, when they get to it, have a wholesale job to do.

The best system, of course, is to keep the brows groomed all the time, to pick out each offender as it rears its ugly little head. This is certainly the most painless system, and, of course, it insures good looking brows all the time.

This last method is easy to follow if you have good tweezers; a shoddy pair, with the wrong kind of a point, makes the whole job almost too irritating to be undertaken.

One kind that will get our vote is the new scissor handled tweezer. It's wonderfully easy to handle and there is no problem at all about getting a good grip on it. There are a couple of versions of this improved weapon against straggly brows. The handle can be curved or straight, as you prefer. In the research done on this little implement before it came to market, it was discovered that women who pluck their own brows seemed to prefer the curved handle type, on the grounds that it gave clearer vision as well as a strong grip. The straight handle seemed to us just as easy to use, but what you like will depend on your own little mannerisms when you set about to do the plucking job.

These scissor handle tweezers have either broad or narrow points; here again what you choose will depend on your preferences. We've had all of them to experiment with and found them all wonderfully satisfactory. You can pluck the brows steadily, quickly, and with less irritation than usual.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 [Special].—The Chicago Cardinals, after leading, 21 to 14, at the half, limped off the Griffith stadium gridiron today victims of a last half Washington uprising, which netted the Redskins a 28 to 21 victory before 33,694.

Five Cardinals suffered injuries in a game that for sheer roughness seldom has been equaled here in National Football league competition. Tony Blazine, giant tackle, was carried off the field suffering from a dislocated knee; Marshall Goldberg, knocked out on two different occasions, has a shoulder separation; Gaynell Tinsley's leg and ribs were injured early in the battle, but he continued to play; Joe Beinor came out of the battle with a leg injury, and Ruppert Pate, quarter back, suffered a broken arm.

Washington Tackle Hurt.

Washington struck thru the air for each of its touchdowns, Sammy Baugh connecting three times for scores. Twelve of his 17 passes were completed. Baugh, however, was on the sidelines when his substitute, Frank Filchock, with a bit of luck, hit with the touchdown pass. From the Cardinals' 20 yard line, Filchock aimed a pass at Bob Masterson. Ki Aldrich, Chicago center, was covering the Washington end, but stumbled, Masterson getting in the clear and taking the ball with no one near him.

After piling up three touchdowns which threatened to pin the first league defeat of the year on the Redskins, the Chicagoans were throttled in the second half. Washington tied the score in the third quarter, and clinched victory in the final period.

Cards First to Score.

The Cards opened the scoring eight minutes after the game started. Joe Kuharich became the first player in the league to intercept a pass thrown by Sammy Baugh this year, plucking the ball on the Cardinal's 44 yard line. On the first play Beryl Clark sent a short pass to Lloyd Madden at midfield. He shook off Vic Carroll and Baugh on his 50 yard touchdown dash. Clark converted from placement.

Washington struck back one minute later when Baugh connected with Dick Todd on a pass covering 81 yards. Todd took the ball on his own 37 and ran the rest of the way. Masterson place-kicked the point.

Shortly afterward the Redskins gained possession of the ball on their own 46 when Todd made a nice run back of Clark's punt. They marched fifty-four yards for another tally, a nineteen yard pass from Baugh to Wilbur Moore in the end zone turning the trick. Masterson again added the point from placement.

McCullough Goes Over.

Chicago came back swiftly, Marshall Goldberg making an eighteen yard dash to place the ball on the Redskins' 40, from which point Hugh McCullough passed to Gaynell Tinsley for a first down on the Washington 1 yard line. McCullough plunged over on his first try and Zontini converted to leave the score at 14 to 14 as the quarter ended.

It was in the second period that the Cardinals really handed the home boys a jolt by again assuming the lead, Goldberg turning right end for twenty-two yards to score. Zontini's placement was perfect.

Midway in the third quarter, Washington tied it up again, Baugh passing twenty-one yards to Wayne Millner in the end zone to culminate a drive of 73 yards. Sandy Sanford added the point. Then the Redskins struck in the fourth.

At least two baseball reporters were robbed of their wallets during the Cincinnati phase of the world series. . . . Several sports editors argued this was further proof that baseball experts shouldn't be trusted with anything more valuable than second guesses. . . . The winning share of each Red in the recent world series was about $800 under the all-time tops. . . . The smallest winning world series share was the $1,142 the Giants received for whipping the Athletics in the five game series of 1905. . . . However, that series was rich in historical data, if not in currency. . . . In that competition all five games were shutouts, three of them pitched by Christy Mathewson, one by Joe McGinnity, and one by Chief Bender. . . . Ray Morrison, Temple gridiron coach, estimates that a team which does not use the huddle can run off 25 to 30 more plays than one that does. . . . The Coach.

Today I took two men out of a play
And the coach almost hugged me for the deed,
He said he never saw a lad portray
Such deadly drive combined with so much speed;
"It's grit like that," he said, "that tells the score;
A team can't lose that plays that kind of ball,
If you boys show that courage more and more
He isn't being fooled by make believe;
You're wasting time in handing him a bluff
Because he's one guy that you can't deceive;
And he's right there to pat you on the back
If you are not a dud in the attack.

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 13 [Special].—The champion Green Bay Packers kept pace with the Chicago Bears as co-leaders in the western division of the National Football league today by routing the Cleveland Rams with an irresistible passing attack, 31 to 14, before 16,299.

The Packers scored 17 points before the Rams were able to put over the first of their two touchdowns. The Ohioans, like their conquerors, took to the air for their scores.

Cecil Isbell threw three touchdown passes, two to Carl Mulleneaux. Arnie Herber was on the throwing end of the other one. Before the Packers started scoring thru the air, Clarke Hinkle kicked a field goal in the first quarter. Ken Heineman and Gaylon Smith threw the Rams' touchdown passes.

Hinkle Misses First Kick.

The Packers opened their drive with a push to the Cleveland 23 yard line midway in the first quarter from where Hinkle attempted a placement that went wide. After a quick kick by Cleveland to the Green Bay 38, the Packers started their first successful march. Isbell tossed two passes, one to Hutson, the other to Mulleneaux, which put the ball on the Rams' 32. Another pass was incomplete on the third down after two line plays brought two yards, so Hinkle booted a field goal.

As the second quarter began Isbell hit the line for four yards, then sent a pass to Hutson which the latter snatched off his shoestrings a bare yard over the goal line. Engebretsen kicked the extra point to give Green Bay a 10 to 0 lead.

An intercepted pass by Isbell on the 35 yard line and his return to Cleveland's 48 paved the way for the Packers' next score. Isbell promptly tossed a pass to Mulleneaux on the 10 yard line and he galloped over.

Rams Fumble, but Score.

Then Cleveland started clicking. Heineman, who had replaced Hall, passed to Smith and the latter bulled his way to the Packer 10. There he attempted to lateral, fumbled, and Rockwell, Ram guard, picked the ball up and stepped over for the Cleveland score. Heineman booted the extra point, making it 17 to 7. The Packers stopped another drive late in the second quarter. Cleveland worked the ball to the Packer 16 and Slovak

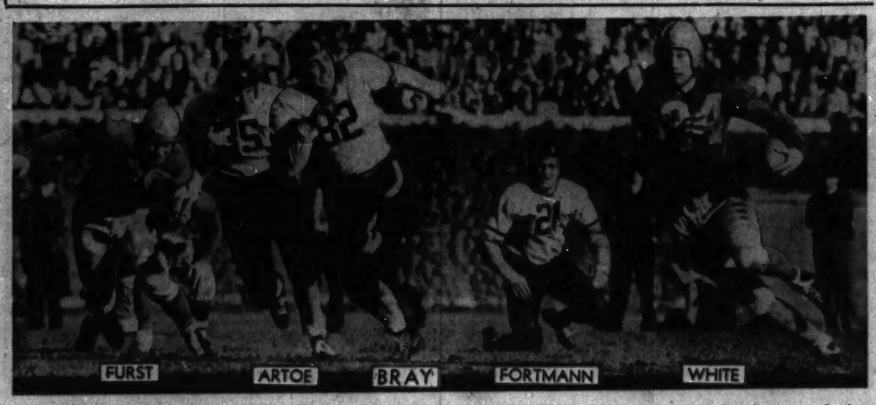
Lions Discover Bears All Over the Place



Whizzer White, Detroit Lions' star quarter back, tries his left end, but gains only three yards in second quarter of National Football league battle in Wrigley field yesterday. The Bears won, 7 to 0, on quick score in first period, and remained tied with the Packers for western division lead.

TWO ELEVENS IN BIG NINE PAY FOR TAKING CHANCES

BY WILFRID SMITH.

That there is no substitute in football for determination and hard blocking need not be argued. That violations of certain fundamental rules involving a percentage of risk invite disaster can be reiterated this morning from a summary of two Western conference football games.

Because Gordon Gile, Wisconsin punter, didn't stand at least 10 yards behind his center [A. A. Stagg once insisted his kickers stand back 12 yards] the third down Badger punt was blocked by Iowa's Jim Walker, recovered and carried for the touchdown which proved sufficient to win, altho the Hawkeyes went on to a final score of 30 to 12.

Ohio Pass Helps N. U. Win.

Because Ohio State, leading Northwestern, 3 to 0, in the fourth period chose the dangerous weapon of a forward pass when deep in its own territory, the Buckeyes created the opportunity which Northwestern's center, Paul Hiemenz, seized to start the Wildcats to the touchdown they deserved and their subsequent 6 to 3 victory over the 1939 Western conference champions.

From Ohio State's 17 yard line, George Benson and Bill De Correvont went on to the Buckeye goal, from which they had been turned back earlier.

Northwestern's victory, based on the same kind of blocking that whipped Minnesota last year, was won by a line that discounted lack of weight by inspired determination. That determination was founded in a harmony among the players lacking a year ago when Ohio State won by two touchdowns. Northwestern's ragged play in that game prompted charges of insincerity by a member of the Northwestern band.

Use Relief Men Sparingly.

Northwestern also won because its first line, with only three substitutes who had important playing time, not only outfought Ohio State's first line, but discounted the Buckeyes' superior manpower. Jim Smith and Al Butherus, Wildcat ends, yielded to Clarence Hasse and Bob Motl. Nick Burke shared a guard position with George Zorich. Other relief men were used sparingly. Topping all linemen was Hiemenz, who played 59 minutes.

Ohio State now knows that while big Don Clawson, Northwestern full back, is a line buster, George Benson, his substitute, also can run the ends. Benson went around one flank in the seventeen yard victory drive and De Correvont sprinted five yards to the goal with the aid of a fine block by Benson.

De Correvont Carries Burden.

It can now be told that De Correvont carried the burden of Northwestern's running attack for more than 50 minutes because Ollie Hahnenstein was injured. Hahnenstein-

Walters and Wilson Help All-Stars Beat Semi-Pros

New York, Oct. 13 [Special].—An all-star team, led by Bucky Walters and Jimmy Wilson of the world champion Cincinnati Reds, today defeated the Bushwicks, crack semi-pro team in Brooklyn, 2 to 1 and 6 to 3, in a double header before 13,000. Walters and Wilson were the battery in the first game. Walters yielded five hits, struck out three, and gave two walks during his nine inning performance.

FUGATE LOST TO MARQUETTE FOR CREIGHTON GAME

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 13 [Special].—Bill Fugate of Cicero, Ill., Marquette university junior guard, a starter in the Iowa State game Friday night, probably will be lost to the team for Saturday's game with Creighton in Omaha.

Fugate was able today to leave the hospital, where he was taken after the Hilltoppers trimmed Iowa State, 41 to 25, but it is considered doubtful that his injured arm will be sufficiently healed to permit him to play against the Bluejays.

Coach Paddy Driscoll of Marquette scouted Creighton in its game with Tulsa yesterday, and will be on hand tomorrow to give a report to his squad.

Jockey Johnny Barba, Injured at Jamaica, Dies

New York, Oct. 13 [Special].—Jockey Johnny Barba, 20 years old, who fell with his mount, Canape, last Monday, the opening day of the current Jamaica meeting, died in a Jamaica hospital today. Barba, contract rider of W. H. Gallagher, was having the best season of his career and had ridden almost 50 winners. In the race prior to his injury Barba piloted Grey Wolf to victory at better than 26 to 1.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The most gracious hosts in the National Football league, those genteel Chicago Bears, yesterday gave 34,617 fans 20 minutes of the finest band entertainment in America and the Detroit Lions four chances to score, but they kept the game to themselves and won, 7 to 0.

Sending Bill Osmanski careening 34 yards thru the best defense in professional football, the Bears scored on the fourth play of the game to eliminate Detroit from a three way tie for first place in the Western division. It was the Bears third victory of the season against one defeat and left them in a deadlock with Green Bay for the sectional lead.

Fight the Good Fight.

After Osmanski had climaxed the opening drive, the Bears fought the good fight back on their own half of the field, seemingly defying Whizzer White and his Lion associates once each period to penetrate to the goal line that has been crossed by each of the Bears' three previous opponents.

Indiana's famous Marching One Hundred, one of the outstanding collegiate musical units in the country, hardly had returned from the flag-raising ceremony in center field before the shirt-sleeved throng in the bleachers came up cheering the first touchdown of the year in Wrigley field. Ray Nolting, whose work on defense yesterday eclipsed his usual excellent offensive labors, brought the kickoff back 54 yards to the Lions' 47 yard line, where White, the last defender, bunted him out of bounds with a flying tackle.

Sherman Goes Twenty-three Yards.

Sollie Sherman, who will have a hard time convincing friends it was at the University of Chicago that he learned all the football he played yesterday, called a running play, but the Bears were caught holding and set back 15 yards to their own 43 yard line. On the next play Sherman attempted to pass. Charging Lions surrounded him before he could get it away, but with no receiver visible, he wheeled to his right and went wide down the sidelines for 23 yards and a first down on the Lions' 34 yard line.

The next play decided the game. Osmanski started for a spot inside Harry Smith, the All-Star guard from Southern California who has been made over into a right tackle by Detroit. By the time he got there, Smith had been moved out and a gaping hole beckoned Osmanski into the secondary. He exploded over two backers-up and straightened out for the goal line. Lloyd Cardwell, who had a bad day all around, what with the Bear defense stopping his wide reverse technique, lunged at him on the 11 yard line, but succeeded only in slapping Osmanski on the back.

Manders Adds Extra Point.

Jack Manders, the veteran right half back with a reputation for place kicks, came off the Bear bench to replace Hampton Pool, rookie right end. He added the extra point. Then after he had kicked off over the goal line for a touchdown, Manders withdrew in favor of George Wilson, his job done for the day.

Thereafter the Bears penetrated only to the Lions' 38 yard line, getting there in the second quarter. They crossed the middle of the field only three times, altho in the fourth period Nolting broke away for sixty yards on a quick opening play only to have the touchdown called back because of an offside

Too Much Bear Defense.

White strove valiantly for 55 minutes of the game to get the Lions back into the running. But there was too much Bear defense for the

MARQUART AND PLEASANT MEET IN BOUT TONIGHT

Lightweights to Battle in Marigold Gardens.

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., lightweight, whose record of 52 victories during a four year campaign has given him a measure of prominence, will attempt to spoil the comeback plans of Johnny Pleasant in a 10 round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Pleasant, last year's Chicagoland Golden Gloves 135 pound winner, suffered one of the most humiliating setbacks of his career at the hands of Chico Romo last Monday.

Johnny, a terrific right hand hitter, had been given a good chance to knock out the clever and comparatively light punching Romo. Chico, however, surprised fans by flooring Pleasant for an eight count in the third round, in addition to handing him a lesson. As a result, Marquart is favored to win tonight.

Taylor Meets Bennett.

Tito Taylor, popular local welterweight, and Leonard Bennett will meet in an eight round semi-final. Bennett conquered Taylor in an earlier meeting, but the latter's recent conquest of Tony Motisi enchances his chances of obtaining revenge this time.

Al Beauhuld, Terre Haute, Ind., 150 pounder, will face Sammy Secreet of Pittsburgh in a four round event. An additional match at this distance brings together Matt Daugherty, Milwaukee lightweight, and Al Jackson. Ed Stanley, heavyweight stablemate of Beauhuld, has been substituted for Bill Peterson against Mickey Hayes in still another four round engagement. A wrestling encounter between Jack [Bad Boy] Brown and James Landis also will be held.

The Swedish Angel will meet Olaf Olson in a mat headliner this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Ralph Garibaldi and Oki Shikina will appear in two of four supporting engagements, Garibaldi against Patrick Rooney, and Oki against George Dusette.

Baers Arrive Wednesday.

Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max and Buddy Baer, will arrive Wednesday morning to confer with Chicago Stadium officials anent a prospective match between Max and Lou Nova in the west side arena, during the winter. He will be accompanied by the fighting brothers, both of whom are to register for military service in this city before continuing the journey to New York Wednesday afternoon. Issy Kline, trainer for Max, who is 31, and Buddy, 25, will go east with them to take over supervision of Ken Overlin's training there for a defense of his middleweight title against Steve Belloise in Madison Square Garden Nov. 1. Max will appear in a musical comedy while in the east.

The Veteran Boxers' association will conduct a meeting in the Sherman hotel tonight at which plans to offer a benefit show in Coulon's gymnasium, Oct. 30, will be discussed. . . . Clarence Brown, south side heavyweight, plans to sue George Trafton for assault and battery following a fist fight he had with Trafton in the latter's gymnasium on Saturday.

BILL PARKS WINS 5 RACES, TITLE IN DINGHY REGATTA

Bill Parks of the Columbia Yacht club, who won all five races in his class, was the major winner in the Midwest Dinghy association's annual autumn regatta, sailed yesterday off the Monroe street clubhouse of the Chicago Yacht club. Jack May was his crew.

Forty-nine dinghies representing six classes competed in ideal weather In the steady wind the usual spills were absent, but the spectators lining the shore had plenty of thrills. The Columbia Yacht Club class had 15 entries. Jack Holbrook and Bill Brix took second place and Willis Wate, with his daughter Leslie as crew, took third. Winners in the other classes were:

Chicago Yacht Club Dyer class, Harry Nye; Jackson Park Yacht Club class, Bert Billheimer; Sheridan Shore Yacht Club class, John Pirie; Racine Yacht Club class, Henry Stuedinger; Open 12 class, Ari Porter.

Parks lost his chances to make it a perfect day when his main sheet parted at the start of the cock-o'-the-walk race. This was won by Harry Nye, with John Pirie second and Bert Billheimer third.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES — GUESSING ABOUT A BLESSING

Sportsman's Out to Break Own Records

If the first week of racing at Sportsman's Park is a criterion, John L. Keeshin will lead the half mile race track to the greatest meeting in the nine years of its operation. Records for attendance and wagering were set during the first six days of racing and, given fair weather, the National Jockey club will follow in the footsteps of Arlington Park, Washington Park and Hawthorne, all of which bettered 1939 marks during their meetings this year.

During the first week more than a million and a half dollars were wagered at Sportsman's Park, as compared to a million and a quarter during the same week a year ago. While the wagering Saturday of $377,669 did not set a new record for the highest daily mutuel figure, the heavy betting of the week set a new record for any one week in the history of the track.

Favorites Come Thru.

With the public pouring more money into the mutuel machines than ever before, the favorite jockeys were doing their stuff to the satisfaction of all concerned. Andy LoTurco is out in front of the riders with seven victories. T. P. Martin, the top rider in 1938, is close behind with six and Al Bodiou, another favorite, and Paul Keiper, experienced veteran, have five each to tie with Steve Brooks for third place.

Wilson Leads Trainers.

In the battle for top place among the trainers, L. J. Wilson of the Lexbrook stables and C. J. Conners, who trains for Hilltop farms, are in front, each having saddled four winners. Ben Creech and John Withers have three each.

The feature race for this afternoon is the Maywood, a six and a half furlong affair with Winkle and Tony Weaver being favored in a field of six.

9 TEAMS START IN MONTREAL'S 6 DAY BIKE RACE

MONTREAL, Oct. 13 (AP).—Nine teams started tonight in Montreal's six day bicycle race. Torchy Peden of Victoria and Rene Cyr of Montreal were favorites of the crowd as the riders sped around the opening laps. Peden is fresh from a victory in the Washington race, while Cyr, 20 year old dominion amateur champion, is having his first taste of professional competition.

The other teams are Gerard Debaets, Belgium, and Charley Yaccino, Chicago; Archie Bollaert, Detroit, and Charley Bergna, Paterson, N. J.; Alf Letourner, France, and Angelo Debacco, Newark, N. J.; Eddie Kuehn, Chicago, and Bill Peden, Cleveland; Al Sellinger, Newark, and Johnny Eller, Brooklyn; and Cecil Yates and Jerry Rodman, Chicago.

Broadhollow Poloists Win Meadow Brook Tourney

Westbury, N. Y., Oct. 13 [Special].—The Broadhollow polo team today won the title in the Meadow Brook club 16 goal autumn plate tournament, defeating Westbury, 9 to 5. Riding with Tommy Higginson and Bobby Gerry up front and Eddie Gerry at back, Charley Von Stade was the outstanding figure on his side, sharing the game's starring honors with the 10 goal Stewart Iglehart of the Westbury team.

Milwaukee Chiefs Rout Bengals, 49-0; 8 in Row

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 13 (AP).—The undefeated Milwaukee Chiefs remained on top of the American Professional Football league standing today by smothering the Cincinnati Bengals, 49 to 0, before 6,500 fans. It was the Chiefs' eighth straight victory and third straight American league triumph. Only two points have been scored against them.

Slovaks Defeat Hansas, 1 to 0, in Rough Game

BY OFFSIDE.

The Slovaks, who meet Olympia next Sunday in a national cup soccer match, kept their winning streak intact to defeat the Hansas, 1 to 0, yesterday in a major league game at Elston and Kimball avenues before 2,000 spectators. The game was marred by rough tactics.

Playing against the wind the Slovaks scored after 15 minutes of play. Fred Vagovsky, pressed by the Hansa backs, shot from fifteen yards past Carl Boortz into the net. The Hansa rallied and missed two chances, both tries going high over the bar. Temper crept into the game as a number of fouls were called.

The second period was mostly in the Slovaks' favor. Hansa was kept on the defensive as shots rained at Carl Bortz, but Boortz and Art Streeter, at full back, kept the Slovkas from adding to their score.

The champion Swedes had a close call against the German-Americans who held them even until the closing minutes when Nels Olson kicked into the net for a 1 to 0 victory.

SMALL AND MAD, THAT'S INDIANA'S HAROLD ZIMMER

Blames Self for Defeat at Nebraska, 13-7.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Harold Zimmer.

He's only 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs about 155 pounds, an avoirdupois rating which he attained by gaining 10 pounds since last season, when his 145 pounds caused consternation no end among the teams Indiana university played. He is Harold [Red] Zimmer, who on Saturday afternoon was undoubtedly the maddest player in these United States after the game between the Hoosiers and the University of Nebraska in Lincoln.

Zimmer, who is from Springfield, O., was well known to the Huskers. He had run them dizzy in the 7 to 7 tie the teams played last year in Bloomington. They thought Red had been left home for most of Saturday's game, but early in the third period, he scampered onto the field, replacing Earl Dolaway at left half. The Hoosiers had trailed, 13 to 0, at the half, but Red's entrance appeared to galvanize all of his associates into action, and from there on they outplayed Nebraska for the remainder of the game.

Little Man Who Was There.

After Zimmer's entry, Joe Tofil hit the line for sixteen yards. Then Hal Hursh, the Buck Newsom of the Indiana back field, pitched the ball to Zimmer. The little man was surrounded by three Nebraska men as he accepted the ball, but they were still looking for him after he had crossed the goal line for what proved to be the only Hoosier score of the afternoon.

Now comes the story of why Red was so irked, irked still as the Hoosiers landed in the Union station yesterday morning, on their way home to Bloomington. The fourth quarter had barely started, when the redhead dashed off his right end for twenty yards. His eventual detention after that trip would have been annoying enough, but the following play was the one that had the unfortunate Zimmer up trying to catch a pass most of the train ride from Lincoln to Chicago.

He took a long toss from Hursh on the Nebraska 23 yard line. To most observers, and certainly to Red, it appeared that he might have had the possession and control necessary for completion. The officials ruled otherwise, and the tying touchdown that Red undoubtedly would have scored, considering that he was off by himself at the time, did not come to pass.

Little Red Gets Mad.

Zimmer slammed his headguard to the ground, and sideline observers detected tears in his eyes. It took the combined efforts of his colleagues to cheer him up. Red was still feeling a mite down about the matter yesterday, but had plenty of consolation from Coach Bo McMillin and Assistant Athletic Director George Gardner. The Hoosiers have a campus rule that they don't mention the word "breaks," so many of same having gone against them of late.

Certainly they are entitled to use the term on the pass that slipped out of Zimmer's fingers. Zimmer's sorrow was eased by constant repetition of the fact that he and his mates still have six games to play, and there was a light in the little redhead's eyes, as the team headed for Bloomington, that augurs a very disturbing afternoon for Iowa's Hawkeyes next Saturday.

Mount Carmel and St. Rita won their second games yesterday and remained in a deadlock for first place in the south section of the Catholic High school football league. Leo came thru with its first victory and clung to the heels of the leaders in second place, with a tie also on its record.

Mount Carmel scored in the final period to win from Catholic High of Joliet, 6 to 0, on Stagg field. Bob Pillon tallied the Mount Carmel touchdown, plunging over center after the ball was placed on the 1 yard line by a fifteen yard penalty against Joliet for roughness.

Ruby Sparks St. Rita.

St. Rita also rallied in the second half to turn back a fighting Loyola eleven, 12 to 6, on the Rita gridiron. Bill Ruby provided St. Rita's scoring spark, going over for both his team's touchdowns: He tallied from midfield on a reverse in the opening quarter and duplicated the play in the last period, also from midfield. Loyola had tied the score in the second period with a seventy yard drive in which Larry Brown plunged over from the 1 yard line.

Leo turned on scoring power to trim Fenwick on Shewbridge field, 20 to 0. Fenwick has been switched from the north to the south division. Henry [Babe] Baranowski scored two of Leo's touchdowns, in the first and final quarters. His opening tally was a forty-five yard sprint on a reverse from Tom McDonald.

Fumbles Help De Paul.

De Paul won its second straight victory in the north section, triumphing over St. Patrick on Amundsen field, 38 to 6. Fumbles were factors in the ease with which De Paul won. Bill Freewalt ran twenty-five yards for one touchdown and recovered a St. Patrick fumble back of the goal line for the other.

St. Ignatius conquered Weber, 29 to 0, and St. Mel held St. Philip to a scoreless tie in other north section games. St. George, which is in second place with one victory, was idle. Lineups:

BROWN BOMBERS WIN.

Dodgers Get Jump to Beat Steelers, 21-0

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 13 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers, as warm as the weather and as swingy as the team's brass band that played every time it could find an excuse, spent about 11 minutes beating the Pittsburgh Steelers, 21 to 0, today in a National league game before 19,468.

The Dodgers started off as if they would run the score into uncountable figures, slamming across two scores before the first hot dog was sold. Then they sat back and frollicked around until the game was almost over, suddenly came to life in the final period with a fifty-six yard scoring drive, and won their third game in four tries to stay just behind Washington's eastern leaders.

Score in Hurry.

The first Dodger score came with ease. The Steelers had the ball and were moving along nicely, when a wayward pass was snatched by Rhoten Shetley, the old Furman flash, and he scampered thirty-seven yards to the Steelers' 18. In two plays the Dodgers had the ball at the 2 yard line—and that was Pug Manders' signal. He plunged over and Ace Parker booted the placement.

About three minutes later the Dodgers hit the air themselves to set up their second score. A reverse that went from Manders to Parker, who in turn pitched a long pass to Perry Schwartz, put them on the Pittsburgh 15 for a forty yard gain. One play by Manders took them to the 7, and with the Pittsburgh secondary sucked in too far, Parker lobbed a pass to Schwartz in the end zone. Parker again converted.

Score on Pass.

In the fourth period the Dodgers ripped off a fifty-six yard march that was brightened by a Bill Leckonby-to-Herman Hodges pass for twenty-nine yards. The end of the drive came when Ralph Kercheval passed to Leckonby and he stepped over the last line. Kercheval converted. Lineups:

GIANTS, 17; EAGLES, 7.

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—The New York Giants got off to a slow start but finished like a speedway special today against the Philadelphia Eagles for a 17 to 7 victory.

Thruout the first half, with the Giants showing signs of glue-footedness and Davey O'Brien pitching from all angles and getting nowhere, the teams pushed each other all over the Polo Grounds for the entertainment of 30,317 customers. Then Tuffy Leemans and Eddie Miller unwound in the final two periods, and it was all over. Altogether, Leemans pounded out sixty-four yards in ten tries and Miller picked up fifty-five in ten cracks at the Philadelphia line.

As for the Eagles, they made a ball game out of it only for about 20 minutes in the first half and about seven minutes in the last quarter. Lineups:

former Oxford law student when defense was needed most. In the first, second, and third quarters the Bears clamped down on White and associates on the 9 yard line and in the fourth period they permitted them to penetrate to the 16 before taking the ball on downs.

The Bears' offense, altho unable to maintain a sustained march after the opening flareup, resembled the old Bear powerhouse more than at any time this year and outgained the Lions on the ground nearly two to one. With Sherman playing quarter back most of the game, instead of Sid Luckman and Bernie Masterson, the Bears used fewer passes than is their wont and also had less success with them. But as it turned out, the Bears were justified in letting the Indiana band do most of the marching.

Three Bears Hurt.

The fierceness of play took its physical toll from the Bears. Bob Swisher suffered three fractured ribs and Osmanski, who was dazed after the game, was taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital where it was found he had suffered a slight concussion. He was kept in the hospital last night. Osmanski and Tony Furst collided and Cal Thomas also rammed the Bear on the play on which he was injured. Joe Maniaci lost two teeth during the afternoon. KRESS AGREES TO MANAGE ST. PAUL BASEBALL CLUB

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 13 (AP).—Ralph [Red] Kress, coach with the Detroit American league baseball team, will be the new manager of the St. Paul club of the American association.

Lou McKenna, business manager of the Saints, said today he had reached an agreement with Kress but that it will not be completed until Detroit officially releases him and waivers are obtained from other major league clubs. This will be only a formality, however, and Kress is expected to be signed to a St. Paul contract within a week.

Babe Ganzel, St. Paul manager for three seasons, resigned at the end of the association season last month.

Ringney, Coals Beat All-Star Team, 4 to 2

John Ringney, White Sox right hander, pitched the Spencer Coals' semi-pro baseball nine to a 4 to 2 triumph over a major and minor league all-star club in the annual homecoming game in Spencer field yesterday. Ringney yielded six hits, and struck out eight.

Emil [Dutch] Leonard, Washington Senators, right hander, pitched for the homecomers and except for one inning—the first—was as able as Ringney. Leonard surrendered eight hits and struck out nine.

The Coals scored three runs in the first inning on two hits, a walk and an error, then added one more in the sixth. The homecomers scored their first run in the sixth on a home run by George Meyers, Shreveport shortstop.

PACKERS STRIKE THRU AIR 4 TIMES AGAINST RAMS passed, but Uram intercepted on the Packer 2 yard line.

For most of the third quarter the two teams battled evenly. Then Cleveland put the Packers in a hole when Uram was downed on his own 8 yard line. Three plays later Herber, on a fake punt, passed to Hutson on the 35, starting a touchdown march. Hinkle made it a first down on the 45 and picked up another five yards. Herber then tossed to Mulleneaux. The lanky Packer end took it on the Ram 25, fumbled when tackled, but Uram recovered on the 19. After two line plays failed, Herber heaved another toss, this time to Uram in the end zone. The quarter ended with Green Bay leading, 24 to 7.

Engebretsen Misses Kick.

The Packers started off the final quarter with Jankowski picking up two first downs to the Ram 46, and Isbell then tossed to Lou Brock, who ran to the Cleveland 14. After Matheson dropped Isbell for a sixteen yard loss, Engebretsen missed a field goal.

Several plays later Bill Lee intercepted a pass by Hall on the Cleveland 32 and was run out of bounds on the 15 yard line, but passes failed to click.

Cleveland scored its second touchdown in the last few minutes. After the Rams went to the Packer 27 on a charge thru center by Spadaccini, Smith dropped three passes into the arms of the latter. Magnani went to the 5 yard line and Smith tossed to Spadaccini for the score. Spadaccini kicked the placement for the extra point.

Hutson, on the kick-off, returned from his 25 to the Ram 30. From the 19 yard line Isbell, with 30 seconds left to play, passed to Mullenaux for a touchdown. Hinkle kicked the extra point.

She and her companions crossed the highway to wait for a bus to take them back to the hospital. A car driven by Forrest T. Mr. Dreger, whose home is at 6035 South Sawyer avenue, was driving east in 131 street near Will-Cook road, not far from Palos Park. His car smashed into an unlighted barricade which had been moved from a nearby side road and overturned. He died in the Oak Forest infirmary. State and county highway police said that corn stalks and tin cans at the scene indicated a Halloween trick.

Virginia Corey, 3 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Corey, 2718 Arthington street, was killed last night when a car driven by her father collided with another machine in Joliet road near Wolf road, south of La Grange, after a tire blew out. One Chicagoan was killed and three others injured last night when their car ran off state highway 12, a mile north of Lake Geneva, Wis., and struck a tree. His companions gave the victim's name as Antone Kancer of Avers avenue. [An Anton Kancer is listed in the city directory as living at 3351 North Avers avenue.] The others injured were the driver, Albert Lehman, and Emil and Joseph Sobieszyk of 1007 North Throop street.

Mrs. Victoria Zazecny, 39, of 3814 56th place, died in Holy Cross hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when she was struck by a car as she alighted from a bus at Pulaski road and 56th street. The driver was Stanley Marcinkus, 2507 West 69th street.

SEIZE 40 DRUNKS AND BEGGARS IN BELMONT AREA

Forty panhandlers and drunks arrested in a week-end roundup by Town Hall police will appear this morning before Judge J. M. Braude in Town Hall court, charged with disorderly conduct. The drive was instituted at the request of merchants around Belmont avenue and Clark street, who said floaters from the loop were annoying Sunday morning churchgoers and hurting business.

At a conference last Thursday, the business men told Judge Braude and Capt. Patrick O'Connell that in the past small fines of $5 or $10 and costs, worked out in a few days in the Bridewell, had failed to prove an effective deterrent to undesirables. Judge Braude was asked to consider stiffer fines which would enable offenders to be jailed for longer periods. The business man said that, after cadging money, the panhandlers invested it in cheap liquor and frequently went to sleep on the side walks.

POLICEMAN GETS WILD RIDE WITH FLEEING AUTOIST

Stanley Pozinski, 27 years old, 2145 West 18th street, was held by Marquette police last night after he fled from the scene of an accident and plunged thru a fence into a yard eight feet below street level. Policeman Peter Sobel was on Pozinski's running board at the time, but was not seriously hurt.

Sobel and his partner, James Brynda, answered an accident call at 19th and Leavitt streets. As they arrived Pozinski drove away. Sobel made a flying leap and landed on the running board. Pozinski sped south on Leavitt and as he turned west into Cullerton street, lost control.

PRIEST GIVES HIS FRIEND, CORNER COP, A CUSTOMER

William Boyd, 17 years old, 7853 Aberdeen street, was seized last night by Policeman Leo Summers of the Morgan Park station as he was robbing the Rev. Timothy J. Hurley, a Catholic priest.

Father Hurley, pastor of St. Barnabas' church, 1024 street and Longwood drive, was strolling along in his clerical garb near his home when Boyd approached, drew a pistol, and said: "Father, this is a stickup."

The priest gave him $7, meanwhile engaging him in conversation and gradually walking him down the street to where Summers stood on the corner. As they neared the officer Father Hurley called to him, Summers drew his own gun and disarmed Boyd, who had failed to see him. The bandit's gun was not loaded.

POPE'S MESSAGE BROADCAST TO ARGENTINE MEET

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 13 (AP).—Pope Pius XII., in a radio broadcast to the closing session of the National Eucharistic congress of Argentina, urged his listeners today to pray for peace.

"Pray to Jesus Christ, our Lord," the pontiff said, "to spread his peace . . . among the spirits of all mankind so that it may overflow from the heart and extinguish the bitter struggle which sows death on land and sea and in the sky, and feeds people with the bread of pain and bathes them in tears of blood.

"Only in Christ, the world's Savior, is our hope . . . because in his hands are the hearts of men, and he knows and can bring tranquility to the tumultuous waves."

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

DEFENSE WORK DEMANDED FOR MID-CONTINENT

Mississippi Valley Group to Meet.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 13.—Defense and Latin American trade will be the two main topics to be discussed at the 22d annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association, Lachlan Macleay, president, said here today. After a series of committee meetings today the 500 delegates to the convention will get down to business at the first session tomorrow.

Lachlan Macleay.

Macleay said it is vital that the nation's defense industries be located in the vast midcontinent area which has huge resources in manufacturing plants, raw materials and labor. The association has prepared a brochure giving in detail the tremendous resources of the area which roughly is bordered by the Appalachians on the east, the Mid-Rockies on the west, the Canadian border on the north and the Gulf of Mexico and Mexico on the south.

Shows Area's Importance.

The brochure is being distributed to every one in the country having a say in the defense program and to members of congress. It shows that the area in 1937 accounted for 40 per cent or close to 41 billion dollars of the total of the nation's manufacturing. In 1938 it was responsible for 63.5 per cent, or more than 5½ billion dollars of the nation's gross farm income. In 1940 it possessed 31.9 per cent, or 68,205,123 persons, of the country's population.

Macleay said the association will seek to promote the flow of trade from the Canadian border southward thruout the South American continent. The United States especially should give encouragement to the development of rubber supplies in Brazil and of tin in Ecuador, he declared.

"Expansion of rubber growing and tin mining in South America are examples of what we can do to end our dependency on vital raw materials which we get from parts of the world that may be cut off to us," he said.

Has Low Cost Transportation.

"Extension of markets in Latin America would be of inestimable value to the midcontient area which possesses a great system of waterways for the transportation of bulky goods at low cost. Such goods should move in and out of the nation thru the gulf ports."

Macleay said the association proposes to continue its efforts to improve the inland waterways. He added, however, that the association considers itself a friend of the railroads as well as the waterways. What it wants is the best means of transportation at the lowest possible cost.

The water resources committee, of which Maj. Rusfas W. Putnam of Chicago is chairman, voted today to recommend that the association urge the federal government to continue its flood control and development work in the Ohio river valley which serves one of the most important industrial areas in the nation.

Chicago Plant of Bruning Co. to Be Doubled

BY AL CHASE.

The Charles Bruning Company, Inc., will double its Chicago plant capacity, it was disclosed yesterday. Work will be started at once on a one and two story building at 4700 West Montrose avenue, designed by Architect Victor L. Charn. The reported cost is $278,000. The B.-W. Construction company has the general contract.

The Bruning company manufactures drafting and engineering supplies and equipment, sensitized paper and clothes, blue print machines, and other products.

Navy Buying Increases.

The army and navy for many years have been steady customers, according to Robert Munch, assistant vice president. With the national defense program getting under way the navy has been buying more drafting and engineering supplies than in former years. This, together with an increase in general orders, has increased the company's activities to a point where more space is needed, Munch said.

The new plant will be directly north of the new Montrose Manufacturing district [owned by the Clearing Industrial district]. It will occupy a triangular site fronting 291 feet on Montrose, with the two other sides of the triangle flanked by the North Western and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroads.

Part to Be Air Conditioned.

The building, of modern design, will cover 57,000 square feet. The second floor section will contain the company's offices and will be air conditioned. There also will be a display room, reception room, storage rooms, chemical mixing room, machine shop, and other departments.

The company's main plant and offices are in New York. It has 13 branches, from coast to coast. The Chicago plant employs about 140 persons. Its activities here, now in three locations, will be consolidated in the new plant.

EUROPE'S WHEAT CROP ESTIMATE 20 PCT. REDUCED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 [Special].—The European wheat crop this year, exclusive of the Soviet Union, is estimated 20 per cent below that of 1939, the department of agriculture reported today. The crop is estimated at about 1,375,000,000 bushels against 1,717,000,000 in 1939, and an average of 1,576,000,000 bushels for the five year period 1933-37.

The largest reductions are in western, northern and southeastern Europe. The crop in those regions was affected by adverse weather during the fall seeding season, by the severe cold during the winter, by a late spring, and in some cases by heavy floods. Disrupted labor conditions and military activities also played a part.

DECLARES WAR CUTS INTO U. S. AUTO EXPORTS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13 [Special].—The war during its first 12 months cost the United States automobile industry $95,200,000 in normal exports, Ward's Automotive Reports said today.

Because of the larger amount of specialized equipment required on trucks for military purposes, dollar volume in this classification rose about 3 per cent but unit shipments decreased during the 12 months compared with the preceding 12 months, the review said.

Passenger car shipments fell heavily, 35 per cent by value and nearly 37 per cent by units, it said.

GOGGLE, DUSTER ERA CARS SHOWN AT AUTO EXHIBIT

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—Competing for interest with the 200 new model automobiles the motorcar industry is presenting at its 41st annual show in Grand Central Palace here are 40 vehicles of the "hand made" era and a small group of "custom built" cars that may well be termed the automobiles of tomorrow.

The early day cars include several with records of 200,000 miles of service; some with speed records of a mile-a-minute in the days when operation for more than a mile or so without a breakdown was an achievement, and a number of others that played a conspicuous part in the early development of the automobile industry.

The "cars of tomorrow," are not so designated, but they verge on the extreme in styling. They contain power plants identical with those of the 1941 vehicles with which industry hopes to develop a market for four and one-half million units during the next 12 months.

NEW YORK CITY LOAN OF $278,000 COSTS $2,468,435

New York, Oct. 13 [Special].—New York City has on its books, and can do nothing about it, a 280 year bond issue amounting to only $278,000, the actual interest cost to maturity of which will amount to $2,468,435.

The bonds were issued 73 years ago, on Feb. 2, 1867, by the Town of West Farms, then in Westchester county, which later was absorbed by the city. They bear interest at 7 per cent, a record rate for city obligations.

"This freak issue is typical of the most unsound sort of financing," the city controler declared. "The fact that the interest cost is nearly 10 times the principal illustrates what poor fiscal planning will do to the taxpayers. Unfortunately, the issue cannot be called. Our own sinking funds, however, have acquired and are holding some of the bonds."

ADMIRAL DU BOSE WILL HEAD SHIP FIRM COMMITTEE

New York, Oct. 13 [Special].—Rear Admiral William G. DuBose, who retired from the United States navy after serving more than 45 years, including service as the navy's chief constructor from 1937 to 1939, has been elected chairman of the executive committee and a director of Cramp Shipbuilding company, it was disclosed today.

The executive committee, thru which the shipyard will be operated, will consist of DuBose, Joseph P. Ripley, chairman of the board, and James Reed, president of the company.

Admiral DuBose will take an active part in the reopening of the shipyard and in the construction of more than $100,000,000 of naval cruisers.

New York Bread Price Cut to 10 Cents for 18 Ounces

New York, Oct. 13 [Special].—William Fellowes Morgan, commissioner of the department of markets, announced today that bakers had agreed to reduce the price of the 18 ounce loaf of white bread from 11 to 10 cents, beginning Monday. Commissioner Morgan calculated the saving at $15,000 a day.

BRITISH PONDER WORLD EVENTS' TRADE EFFECTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The attention of British business men last week was drawn outside the besieged City of London to new and important developments in America, the far east, and eastern Europe, the reaction of which on British commerce and industry in wartime is impossible to estimate.

Outstanding in the news was announcement of the Anglo-American wool agreement, under which the British government will "make available for purchase by the United States" in case of an emergency 250,000,000 pounds of Australian wool which it is storing in America.

As far as value is concerned, the new Anglo-American wool deal is smaller than the recent rubber and tin transactions. It represents, according to market estimates, a total of £12,500,000 [about $50,000,000], against £65,000,000 [about $260,000,000] involved in the rubber and tin transactions.

May Be Economic Weapon.

Implications of the new agreement, however, extend far beyond the confines of routine business and, in the opinion of market circles, might well be used as a powerful economic weapon against Japan, apart from the already admitted function of depriving Germany and Italy of possible sources for wool imports.

Tho the British government agreed in September last year to purchase the whole Australian wool clip for the duration of the war and for 12 months thereafter, it was subsequently arranged that Japan and other neutral countries should be permitted to import direct from Australia their normal wool requirements.

If, in view of the recent political developments, the British government has decided this arrangement is no longer desirable as far as Japan is concerned, the Anglo-American agreement, according to informed commentators here, would provide a convenient outlet for wool shipments which hitherto have been going to Japan.

Relations Are Strained.

Since Japan became a full fledged member of the axis combination, commercial relations of that country with Britain have become more and more strained. Staffs of most Japanese banks and business houses in London, it was reported, have been advised by the Tokio foreign office to return home because business already had been brought to a standstill. There are four Japanese branch banks in London and two big commercial concerns.

Another sore point in Anglo-Japanese commercial dealings is the fact that Japanese ships carrying cargoes from all parts of the world for Britain recently have been discharging the goods at European ports, mostly at Lisbon, Portugal.

STONE & WEBSTER.

Several weeks ago I read that a subsidiary of Stone & Webster was awarded a $10,800,000 contract to construct a TNT plant for the government at Wilmington, Ill. I would like some information about this company. Does it have stock outstanding? —K. F.

Answer: Started in 1889 as a consulting engineering firm, Stone & Webster, Inc., extended its activities to include the designing and construction of electrical and petroleum plants; the supervision of operating properties, especially in the public utility field; investment in such properties and the underwriting and distribution of a wide range of securities. These activities are divided among five subsidiaries. Offices of the company are in New York and Boston.

Capitalization of Stone & Webster, Inc., comprises 2,104,391 shares of no par capital stock listed on the New York Stock exchange. Consolidated net income of the company and subsidiaries, earnings per capital share and dividends per share in recent years follow:

1937	861,640	0.41	*
1938	761,306	0.36	...

*Distributed 4-5ths share of common of Engineers Public Service company and 1-10th share of common of Sierra Pacific Power company for each share of Stone & Webster outstanding.

Net income in the first half of 1940 rose to $476,977, equal to 23 cents a share, from $431,305, or 20 cents a share, in the first half of 1939.

FRENCH COMPANY.

I would like a recent report on the Union Fire, Accident and General Insurance company of Paris, France. —T. L.

Answer: The Union Fire, Accident and General Insurance company has operated a branch in the United States since 1910. It writes fire, aircraft, automobile and other forms of property insurance.

The American branch had total admitted assets of $1,576,000 on June 30 this year compared with $1,668,000 at the end of 1939 and $1,585,000 on June 30, 1939. Policyholders' surplus last June 30 was $1,066,000 compared with $1,162,000 at the end of 1939 and $1,507,000 a year earlier.

Net premiums written in the first half this year totaled $275,000, against $449,000 in all of 1939 and $233,000 in the first half of 1939.

The American branch is licensed in nearly every state and is required to deposit funds with state insurance departments to cover its liabilities to American policyholders.
